

Quarters Seven is more than a historic Air Force building, it is a welcoming home.

Located on historic Ft. Myers, Virginia, Quarters Seven is the residence of the Air Force Chief of Staff.

This book surveys the history of the United States Air Force and recounts the service of Air Force Chiefs of Staff and their spouses. Air House presents a striking collection of photographs, which illustrated the distinctive styles that residents have brought to Quarters Seven over the decades.

Borrow this book through your local library.