

MARINE BOARD OF INVESTIGATION

Captain Jason D. Neubauer

Marine Board of Investigation Chairman

U.S. Coast Guard

Capt. Neubauer has served as the chief of the Office of Investigations & Analysis at Coast Guard Headquarters since July 2014. He is responsible for overseeing marine casualty investigations, suspension and revocation cases involving credentialed mariners, violation investigations and data analysis for the Coast Guard's prevention operations.

Capt. Neubauer previously served as the commanding officer of Marine Safety Unit Chicago from July 2012 to July 2014, where he was responsible for prevention operations spanning 300 miles of Lake Michigan coast line and 180 miles of the Illinois River and its tributaries. He also served as the prevention department chief and deputy commander at Coast Guard Sector Honolulu from July 2008 to June 2012, where he was responsible for overseeing Coast Guard operations throughout a 1.5 million square mile Captain of the Port Zone that includes the entire Hawaiian Islands and American Samoa.

Capt. Neubauer was commissioned as an ensign after graduating from the United States Coast Guard Academy in 1992 with a Bachelor of Science in marine engineering and naval architecture. After completing an initial marine inspection training tour in Seattle, he transferred to Marine Safety Office Morgan City from 1996-2000, where he inspected vessels supporting the offshore drilling industry and served for three years investigating a wide variety of marine casualties.

Capt. Neubauer also served as the supervisor of Marine Safety Detachment St. Paul, Minnesota, from August 2000 until June 2003. In St. Paul, he worked closely with the Army Corps of Engineers and the tug and barge industries that transport vital commerce on the Western rivers.
