Dear Yardley:-

Colonel Locke is anxious to have some way of checking the M. A. messages so as to assure himself that none are missing. I would suggest, that if it is more convenient to you to continue to use our serial numbers than to start a new series of your own, you include in the receipt sent for Colonel Locke's signature a note indicating any missing numbers, that is, if you send him M. A. 490, but have not sent 489 a note to the effect that 489 is not sent will answer every purpose. If, on the other hand, you prefer to start a new series of your own there is no objection to your so doing.

Very sincerely yours,

Frank Moorman

Dear Moorman:

We will start a series of consecutive numbers of our own and handle the Ma in the same manner as we handle the J.

Very sincerely yours,

H. O. Yardley
