

From rlbens1 Mon Aug 5 15:50:29 1996
To: wpcrowe@nsa
Subject: gru messages
Cc: rllerne@nsa, jpcavan@nsa
Classification: ~~X~~ Content-Length: 2204 X-Lines: 33
Content-Length: 2207
X-Lines: 57

Bill,

This morning I did quick review of the London KGB and London GRU which GCHQ redacted and sent to Rona for simultaneous release (part of our 5th release).

(b)(5)

The KGB translations look the same as those we hold.

GRU material sent to us is greatly different from what we held. We hold 65 GRU London <--> Moscow translations of 1940-41 messages. GCHQ sent us (my quick count) 159 messages on that lane and those years.

[REDACTED]

Most of the translations/re-translations that we do not have seem to have been made c. 1967 [REDACTED]

However, messages we did not have at all or have incomplete versions show:

- + GRU spy ring called the "X Network", apparently in the British armed forces
- + A u/i GRU radio-equipped personality covername STANLEY (same c/n as Kim Philby but this is not Philby -- I think a message describes this STANLEY as being from a Canadian working class family. I might have a guess at the ident).
- + GRU interview of Klaus Fuchs in the UK and his description of early atomic bomb research
- + The X Network learned that UK had broken a Soviet code (nfi)
- + A u/i source doing technical work in a UK intelligence organization (NFI)
- + A British Colonel clandestinely working with GRU
- + Discussion of the Crypto systems being used by GRU London
- + Several other apparently important u/i sources and more info abt GRU using clandestine comms.

[the London GRU of 1945-47 looks approx like what we hold, but I did not study carefully]

At least two 1945 KGB messages (and these we do have in file) have information about apparently important but u/i U.S. connected agents. Another 1945 KGB msg mentions the work of the u/i female agent TINA who is providing valuable documents re the atomic bomb.

[REDACTED]

DOCID: 4129962

(truenames in text and footnotes). Their call. Their footnotes do contain the idents STANLEY = Philby and HICKS = Guy Burgess. We will put a couple UK messages in the book for the Oct conference.

Lou