

Operation Autumn Goose

Pope crews test cold weather capability

By Capt. Steve Offen
41st Tactical Airlift Squadron

In keeping with their motto, "Anywhere, anytime," 25 aircrew members from the 41st Tactical Airlift Squadron and 12 maintenance specialists from the 317th Avionics, Field and Organizational Maintenance Squadrons deployed to Goose Bay, Newfoundland for Operation Autumn Goose Nov. 12-16.

The mission was commanded by Lt. Col. John Handy with maintenance supervision provided by MSGt. Ronald Bowen.

The overall goals of the deployment were to gain experience in operating and maintaining aircraft in cold weather and practice in low level, visual navigation over unfamiliar, snow covered terrain. With temperatures in the 20s and miles of unimproved, virgin territory, Goose Bay provided the ideal environment for this test.

After arriving and setting up, air crews and maintenance people prepared for three days of concentrated flying.

Typically, these days began with a 6:30 a.m. wake-up and breakfast at the Goose Bay Air Force dining hall. After breakfast, maintenance people and the crew's engineer and load master proceeded to the airplanes while the pilots and navigators reported for a briefing on the day's mission.

Missions were planned over two routes which left Goose Bay, covered 200-280 miles and returned for an air-drop on Weber Drop Zone, adjacent to the runways at Goose Bay.

All missions were flown at 300 feet above the ground to emphasize low level navigation skills. In addition, multiple racetrack patterns in the drop zone vicinity permitted intensive practice of drop zone run-in, pop-up and air release techniques.

While the aircrews were flying, the mission support staff formed into a drop zone control team. Although a Combat Control Team did not deploy for the exercise, they loaned fluorescent panels to mark the drop zone's point of impact and smoke grenade to signal incoming aircraft.

In addition to this equipment, the Air Force detachment at Goose Bay loaned a large, tracked vehicle and two snowmobiles for movement on snow covered drop zone.

SSgt. Ray Slaughter and SSgt. Michael Lavengood became sufficiently proficient with the tracked vehicle to add it to their military driver's licenses and the remainder of the staff worked extensively with the snowmobiles. While much of this riding had the appearance of recreation, Colonel Handy defined it as, "practice for proficiency in the event of an operational requirement."

Not all of the time at Goose Bay was spent in support of flying operations. Several participants were able to tour local facilities including the control tower, the British Royal Air Force detachment and one of their Vulcan bombers. Crewmembers found the opportunity to compare equipment and low level flying tactics particularly interesting.

Colonel Handy was interviewed on the local television station about the mission of the exercise participants.

Autumn Goose Terminated with the redeployment of all aircraft and people. The airplanes flew in formation to Pope for a landing on the Pope assault strip.

40th TAS on rotation

Lt. Col. George Gray, Capt. Morgan Hodges and 2nd Lt. John Garrisi check out the flight plan for the day's mission. Members of the 40th Tactical Airlift Squadron, designated Bravo Squadron while on rotation at RAF Mildenhall, England, have a 99.3 percent controllable reliability rate for on-time takeoffs based on the most recent statistics. These figures are based on 152 launches with one maintenance delay and one weather delay. (U.S. Air Force photo by A1C. Andrew Knef)

Fund established for Christmas child

Six-year-old Latoshia Elliott, the victim of a head-on auto crash, lies in a coma at Cape Fear Valley Hospital in Fayetteville.

Latoshia's mother, Mary Elliott, believes her daughter's condition seems to be improving. Doctors are hopeful that the little girl will regain consciousness in the near future.

Third Mobile Aerial Port Squadron Commander Lt. Col. Roger C. Reutershan has announced his squadron has officially adopted Latoshia as their 1981 Christmas child.

The Recreation Center has been designated as the collection point for monetary donations or Christmas toys on Latoshia's behalf.

Those who wish may visit Latoshia in room 502 at Cape Fear Valley Hospital during visiting hours.

Tree lighting

Col. Edsel R. Field, 317th Tactical Airlift Wing commander, will flip the switch to light the base Christmas tree Sunday at 6 p.m. The tree is on the traffic triangle between the Wing and Combat Support Group buildings.

The Pope Pipers will sing and the audience will be invited to join in carols. Refreshments will be served at the Base Chapel.

Deadline for tax recertification

Air Force members claiming New Jersey, New York or Oregon as their legal residence must recertify their state tax exemption status by Dec. 31, say officials of the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center in Denver.

Members should fill out the state income tax exemption test certificate--DD Form 2058-1--at the base Accounting and Finance office.

Failing to recertify will result in state income tax being deducted from members' pay beginning in January 1982.

Individuals currently exempt from the state income tax have received reminders to recertify in their October and November leave and earning statements.

For more information, contact the Military Pay section Ext. 2640 or 4441.

If your boat should capsize or swamp, here is a word of advice from the Coast Guard Auxiliary. Don't attempt to swim to shore. It probably is much farther than it looks. Stay with the boat. Most pleasure craft will stay afloat even when capsized or filled with water.

Santa leaves mystery gifts in Base Suggestion Office

The Christmas season with all its secrets and surprises is almost here and Santa stopped by the Pope Suggestion Office early to drop off a couple of large mystery gifts.

There are no names on the tags and if the suggestion folks know what is in the boxes, they aren't telling. They did reveal that the gifts are valued at $100 and they won't know who the recipients are until 1 p.m. Dec. 23.

"To get your name on one of the Christmas tags, all you have to do is share your eligible suggestions," said

SrA. Karen Hoylman, Suggestion Office. "The first mystery gift will go to the person submitting the largest number of eligible suggestions between Dec. 1-23. The other gift will be presented to the individual submitting the 100th suggestion. The winners will be announced at 1 p.m., Dec. 23.

"We have the name of every Pope suggester on our gift list," said Jear Kennedy, Suggestion Program manager. "We hope all of you will stop by the office and pick up your gift."

How to meet a board

By Lt. Col. B.R. Hooten
39th Tactical Airlift Squadron

I recently spent a week at Randolph AFB as a member of the Undergraduate Flying Training Selection Board. Two other officers and I selected future pilot and navigator training candidates from applications Air Force-wide. Before you permanently flip over to the movie schedule, thinking this doesn't apply to you, read on. What I have to say will apply to virtually every airman, NCO, and officer on this base.

All of us have, or will, meet a selection board of some kind and the results will be vitally important to our careers. Selection boards are the Air Force's

Officers' records go before a promotion board for each rank, starting with captain. NCO's records are screened by a board for promotion to E-8 and E-9. Airmen, NCO, and Senior NCO of the quarter and year, at all levels, are selected by a board. Many special assignments are filled by the winners of a board competition.

I learned a lot sitting on that board. I'd like to share some of my observations of how a board works, what a winning record consists of, and lastly, what you as an Air Force member can do now to help your chances on the next board you meet.

Without a lengthy description of details, let me say that all board proceedings are highly competitive. Board members are faced with the difficult and exhausting job of considering each of what could be literally thousands of records, assigning each a score based on quality, resolving any significant scoring differences, and finally selecting the allowable number of winners.

To give you a feel for the magnitude of the job, our board of three screened 629 records in one week and selected 139 winners. Some of the large promotion boards spend two weeks or more poring over several thousand records. It's a tough, tough job.

What is a winning record in this type of competition? It's simply one of those scored above the cut-off. Like a baseball game, there's no minimum score to win, just one run more than the other team. It doesn't matter whether the score was 1 to 0, or 21 to 20, the result is the same.

Some of the things that make a person competitive in this type of selection process are easily predictable--job level of responsibility, professional military education completed, off-duty educational accomplishments, formal training schools/courses completed, Officer Effectiveness Report/Airman Proficiency Report marks and word picture, level of indorsement on OER/APRs--even the picture if one is required. Remember, probably no one of these alone will make or break you--it's all relative to your overall accomplishments compared to those of the others in the group. On the other hand, whatever it is, you can ill afford to be the only kid on the block without one.

Even the picture makes a difference because it helps the board members form an impression of the person represented by the record. The words can say Steve Canyon, but if the picture says Ringo Starr--well, you get the picture.

To be more competitive on your next board you must do all that you can to improve as many areas of your record as you can.

● Enroll in and finish that Professional Military Education course, or college course. Be sure that your record is upgraded to reflect it.

● Actively seek out additional responsibility and work hard to justify a higher level OER/APR indorsement. Earn it.

● While trying to improve the positive parts of the record, be careful not to add anything negative. One letter of reprimand or Article 15 can get you thrown out of the game.

● Carefully check the currency and quality of your official photo. If your uniform is not absolutely perfect and your hair is not neat and unquestionably within AFR 35-10 standards, you are shooting off your own foot.

● Last, and probably most important, earn good marks on your OER or APR. With today's inflation of both systems, high marks don't always differentiate well between top performers, but low marks leave no doubt about the rater's intentions.

Based on my experience on the Undergraduate Flying Training Selection Board, I am convinced that the board process is exhaustingly fair and honest, and that it does what it is designed to do--it compares records and selects the strongest.

It's just that simple. To successfully compete in this type of competition, you must build a record that is the best that it can be.

The basic ingredient is a strong performance report--without that, the other things can't pull you through. Good OERs and APRs result from good work.

That's the bottom line. No magic answers, just hard work in your job now so that in the future a board member--like me--will look at your record and see a winner.

1. Don't take the machine into the air unless you are satisfied it will fly.

2. Never leave the ground with the motor leaking.

3. Don't turn sharply when taxiing. Instead of turning short, have someone lift the tail around.

4. In taking off, look at the ground and the air.

5. Never get out of a machine with the motor running until the pilot relieving you can reach the engine controls.

6. Pilots should carry hankies in a handy position to wipe off goggles.

7. Riding on the steps, wings, or tail of a machine is prohibited.

8. In case the engine fails on takeoff, land straight ahead regardless of obstacles.

9. No machine must taxi faster than a man can walk.

10. Do not trust altitude instruments.

11. Learn to gage altitude, especially on landing.

12. If you see another machine near you, get out of its way.

13. No two cadets should ever ride together in the same machine.

14. Never run the motor so that blast will blow on other machines.

15. Before you begin a landing glide, see that no machines are under you.

16. Hedge-hopping will not be tolerated.

17. No spins on back or tail slides will be indulged in as they unnecessarily strain the machine.

18. If flying against the wind, and you wish to turn and fly with the wind, don't make a sharp turn near the ground. You might crash.

19. Motors have been known to stop during a long glide. If the pilot wishes to use the motor for landing, he should open the throttle.

20. Don't attempt to force machines onto the ground with more than flying speed. The result is bouncing and ricocheting.

21. Pilots will not wear spurs while flying.

22. Do not use aeronautical gasoline in cars and motorcycles.

23. You must not take off or land closer than 50 feet to the hangar.

24. Never take a machine into the air until you are familiar with its controls and instruments.

25. If an emergency occurs while flying, land as soon as possible.

comprehensive "back to basics" approach that encompasses commitment to our nation, dedication to duty and pride in ourselves.

Pride comes from within and is fostered by total involvement in our duties and in our communities.

It is evident that the public supports a strong military; consequently, we must measure up to the trust and support the public is according us.

To begin with, I believe self-pride, pride in service and individual unit pride are concepts that Project Image will build upon and encourage. Our commanders, officers and NCOs can help by setting the right example; our junior members can live up to their individual responsibilities by meeting standards. Together we can renew that sense of pride in ourselves, our mission, and our service.

We are judged by the image we project, so let's ensure that image reflects what we truly represent--the ideals and enduring principles of our great nation.

Project Image

By Gen. James R. Allen
Commander in Chief
Military Airlift Command

I believe the global mission of the Military Airlift Command gives us more visibility than many other commands or services. To many people, particularly in remote parts of the world, we are America. How we appear to them will form the basis of their attitude toward the United States.

With this in mind, I've instituted Project Image, a commandwide program to ensure these attitudes remain positive.

Project Image extends well beyond personal appearance. It is really a

Owens' 645 leads devastating attack

National League bowlers capture All-Star Classic

Fourteen All-Star bowlers, representing the two base intramural bowling leagues, took to the lanes Sunday to formally open this year's intramural special events program.

Elected by their respective league members, these bowlers rolled in tournament fashion with points being awarded in each of the three scheduled events.

A devastating attack in the team event earned the defending champion, National League, the tournament's first 40 points as they poured past a game American League squad 2,994 to 2,753.

National League righthander, Buck Owens, led the scoring with a well-rolled 645-pin effort, followed closely by teammates Ed Fenstermacher and Tony Lombard, who chipped in with sets of 622 and 617, respectively. John Cassell's 615-series was high for the American League.

The National League's total, which netted a 199-pin a game average, leveled the old mark by over 150 pins.

The pace quickened in the singles event as the National Leaguers applied the pressure. Lombard continued his hot hand in this event, scorching the lanes for 677 pins and a new event record. The set, which included the tournament's high game of 246, earned the National League another 35 points.

Cassell, the tourney's only lefthander, brought home the American League's first points with a second place, 658-pin performance. Fenstermacher grabbed third place in the event with 620 pins and earned 20 points.

American Leaguers Rich Marohl and Pete Peterson tied for fourth place and added 25 more points to their team's total, with 591 pins each.

Any hope of an American League comeback in the doubles event was short-lived as the National League grabbed first and third place in the event and another 65 points.

Fenstermacher and Falcon captain, Mike Callahan, led the way, combining for an All-Star record total of 1,252 pins and 45 points on sets of 643 and 609, respectively. Peterson and Marohl earned 35 points with a 1,147-pin, second-place effort, while the N.L.

duo of Lombard and Falcon coach, Jerry Long, completed the scoring with 1,114 pins and 20 points.

Fenstermacher dominated scoring as he grabbed the prestigious all-events trophy in record style. His nine-game total of 1,885 was good for an average of 209 pins a game. Cassell was second, overall, with 1,817 pins. Lombard's 1,811 was enough for third.

The 160 to 90 point victory marked the fourth consecutive such effort by a National League squad. Tournament Director and National League Secretary, Howard Roberts, summed up the enthusiasm of the bowlers by saying, "Events like the 'All-Star' allow bowlers from our two intramural leagues to compete against each other in a friendly, but highly competitive, way. The enthusiasm level of the bowlers is generally very high and they enjoy participating."

Rec Center has much to offer

By Ann. Stacy Morrison
317th Headquarters Squadron

People working at the Recreation Center—such as Robbi Salak—take a genuine interest in what's happening on base and are constantly working to see more things happen.

Ms. Salak came to work for Morale Welfare and Recreation Division one and a half years ago as a Recreation Center assistant. Now, as program director, Ms. Salak said she would like to see more people get involved with the Recreation Center.

"People say that there isn't anything to do on Pope," she said. "The problem is, they don't try very hard to look. Here, at the Rec Center, we'll offer and do anything as long as it's legal and moral."

Ms. Salak is currently involved with the Pope Players, the Recreations Center's group of amateur performers.

Other activities offered at the Recreation Center include Pinochle, pool and ping-pong tournaments, classes and films. There are also band performances and assorted informational services.

Racquetball team named

The varsity racquetball team has been selected from the winners of the Base Championship Tournament. Forty-one active-duty Air Force people took part in the week-long event in four divisions.

Top honors in the open division went to Capt. Kurt Kamrad, followed by Capt. Gene Hindle and Capt. James Hamby.

In the B class, SSgt.'s Robert Perkowsky, Dave Thompson and Sgt.

Ronald Sully were top three finishers.

Women Division winners were 2nd Lt. Deborah Van De Ven, SSgt. Denise Johnke and SrA Debra Bontrager.

Top finishers in the Senior Division were Captain Hindle, SMSgt. Willie McIntyre and Maj. Bob Skolasky.

DIET CENTER®
"The Natural Way to Lose Weight!"

When you decide to lose weight, COMPARE!

There are hundreds of ways to lose weight. Diet Center suggests that before you start any reducing program, you compare. Consult your doctor. Talk to people who have been on the programs you are considering. Ask yourself if this is a plan you can live with, one that will enable you to keep weight off once you have lost it. If you will do this, we are confident that you will select Diet Center. The following is a basic introduction to the Diet Center Program.

we don't:	we do:
Use shots or drugs to stimulate weight loss. This would not conform to our totally natural approach.	Employ a 100% natural food supplement that stabilizes the blood sugar level and eliminates hunger.
Use prepackaged foods. We know that in order to maintain your weight loss, you must learn to plan your own meals.	Provide a comprehensive education in food selection and preparation techniques from natural sources.
Rely upon ketosis or any other unhealthy, physical state to promote weight loss.	Provide 100% of the daily nutrient requirements as outlined by the U.S. RDA and the 7 U.S. Dietary goals.
Make unrealistic claims as to the speed or effectiveness of our weight loss program.	Achieve an average weight loss of 17 to 25 pounds in 6 weeks, a rate that can be sustained as needed.
Use computers or group therapy to overcome the uniquely personal problem of excess weight.	Meet daily, in private, with each dieter to determine and solve individual problems and chart progress.
Employ celebrities to present Diet Center in our advertising messages.	Publish unsolicited testimonials from real people who have overcome real weight problems at Diet Center.
Charge for any additional services beyond our basic reducing phase of the program.	Provide weekly classes in nutrition and behavior modification and a lifetime maintenance program, free of charge.
Require contracts or charge more than a fair price for the honest service that is rendered.	Encourage dieters to remain on the program only as long as they feel they are receiving their money's worth.
Employ high-pressure sales tactics to "sign you up" on our program. When you are ready, we are ready.	Offer a free, introductory consultation to supply you with the information needed to make your own decision.

We're Diet Center, and we've been helping people lose weight for over ten years. Our program works, and it's totally natural. There are over 1,350 Diet Center locations all across the United States and Canada. Call your local Diet Center Counselor today; it could change your life.
