

Pay raise reaches final stage

On Oct. 6 House and Senate conferees reported conference agreement on the Armed Forces Pay Act of 1981 (H.R. 3350), and the Uniformed Services Pay and Benefits Act of 1981.

Conference agreement contains the following entitlements:
Basic Pay—Provides a moderately targeted pay increase that effectively achieves the goal of restoring pay comparability and provides some relief for the enlisted pay compression problem.

The following percentage increases in basic pay will be effective Oct. 1:

Officers	14.3 percent
E7-E9	17 percent
E5-E6	16.5 percent
E4	13 percent
E2-E3	10.7 percent
E1	10 percent

BAQ and BAS—Provides a 14.3 percent across the board increase in Basic Allowance for Quarters and Basic Allowance for Subsistence, effective Oct. 1.

Aviation Career Incentive Pay—Increases ACIP for members with more than six years of service by 30-35 percent and provides ACIP for rated officers with more than 25 years of officer service (06 and below) in operational flying positions (effective Oct. 1). Comparison of old and new ACIP rates is:

Years	Old	New
Under 2	$125	$125
Over 2	156	156
Over 3	188	188
Over 4	206	206
Over 6	306	400
Over 18	281	370
Over 20	256	340
Over 22	231	310
Over 24	206	280
Over 25	0	250

The Senate considers the Aviation Continuation Bonus to be an extraordinary measure and believes that the increased ACIP is a preferred solution to rated retention problem in that it provides increased incentives for larger segment of the rated force. Therefore, the bill precludes Air Force and Army from using Aviation Bonus and terminates aviation bonus authority for all services on Sept.

30, 1982. Further, the bill stipulates that officers who receive aviation bonus may not also receive increased ACIP rates.

Warrant Officer ACIP—Equalizes warrant officer/commissioned officer ACIP, effective Oct. 1.

Incentive pay for AWACS Air Weapons controllers—Increases hazardous duty incentive pay for officer AWACS air weapons controllers from the current rate of $110 per month to rate of $125-350 per month based on grade and years of experience (gained in ground or AWACS duties) as air weapons controllers (effective Oct. 1).

Hazardous Duty Incentive Pay—Provides increase in minimum enlisted aircrew flight pay to $83 per month ($83-131 per month versus $63-131 per month) to be consistent with the increase in HDIP (effective Oct. 1).

Per Diem equity—Clarifies intent of DOPMA per diem equity amendment that enlisted members on TDY are entitled to both BAS and Subsistence portion of Per Diem in cash except when on

DUIs

Sixty-one -- on and off base -- incidents of Driving Under the influence, involving Air Force members, were recorded by the Pope Security Police for the first three quarters of 1981, Jan. 1-Sept. 30. Since Oct. 1, two Air Force members have been involved in a DUI.

Pope people depart for Bold Eagle '81

Saying that he expects the 317th Tactical Airlift Wing to do a "super bangup job" in Exercise Bold Eagle '81, Maj. Donald Blasberg, mission commander for Pope's forces deploying to Hurlbert Field in the Eglin AFB complex, left today.

The four aircrews and two C-130s deployed to Eglin, from Pope's 39th and 41st Tactical Airlift Squadrons, will be flying special operations, low-level missions in support of unconventional warfare forces.

The aircrews and aircraft will leave Monday for Hurlbert Field. They are expected to return Oct. 29.

"The 317th is definitely going to be successful in this mission," Major Blasberg said.

About 103 Pope people will be responsible for the command and control of three base-based airfields in the Eglin range. Pope's airlift control element team will be responsible for the tactical deployment of the 101st Airborne Division and about 300 C-130 missions.

Overall ALCE commander, Maj. Pat Phillips, said that his people are "ready to go". ALCE members are leaving Pope Oct. 21 and 22 and will return Nov. 10.

Four aircrews and two C-130s, under mission commander Maj. William Gerber, will deploy to Fort Campbell, Ky., Oct. 21-30. These aircrews will employ the low altitude parachute extraction system and the adverse weather delivery system to airlift and deliver troops and equipment from Fort Campbell to Eglin.

During the deployment phase of Exercise Bold Eagle Military Airlift Command crews will fly five C-5 missions, 179 missions in the C-141 and 79 missions in the C-130. Active duty, Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve C-130 crews will provide airdrop, airland and LAPES support during the employment phase of the exercise.

Bold Eagle '81 is a U.S. Readiness Command exercise, designed to evaluate the effectiveness of joint tactics, techniques and procedures in multi-service units.

During the exercise about 23,000 airmen, soldiers, sailors and Marines will be involved.

Air Force vice chief of staff to speak at Oct. 17 breakfast

Gen. Robert C. Mathis, vice chief of staff of the United States Air Force, will be the featured speaker at a military prayer breakfast Oct. 17 at 8 a.m. at the Bordeaux Motor Inn, Fayetteville.

The breakfast is $4.80 for military members in uniform. The event's sponsor, the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International, encourage participation by military members of all ranks stationed in the Fayetteville area.

Persons planning to attend are asked to notify the Pope Chapel, 394-2676, so that the number of meals to be prepared can be determined.

The prayer breakfast is part of a weekend conference Oct. 15-17. Outstanding Christian laymen--political and military leaders, teachers, musicians--will lead the many events scheduled.

Persons interested in the complete conference may contact the Pope Chapel for more information or registration materials.

sea or field duty or when secretary of service determines unit messing is essential to accomplish unit training and readiness (effective Nov. 1).

Travel and transportation allowances in connection with consecutive overseas tour--Authorizes members serving consecutive overseas tours at same remote location to receive travel and transportation entitlements to home of record or place of family residence between tours and authorizes travel and transportation allowances after arrival at new duty station or after commencing in-place remote tour when member has been denied leave between consecutive overseas tours due to military necessity.

Diving pay--Increases rate for diving pay from current rate of $110 per month to maximum of $300 for enlisted and $200 for officers and allows simultaneous payment of one other type of hazardous duty incentive pay in addition to diving pay.

Bonus for engineering and scientific officers--Provides continuation bonus of up to $3,000 for each year of additional obligated service (member must have at least three but less than 15 years of service). Conferees deleted house provision which would have authorized accession bonus of up to $15,000 for an initial four-year period of obligated service.

ROTC scholarships--Authorizes increase in number of Air Force ROTC scholarships for 6,500 to 9,500 (and Navy from 6,000 to 8,000) to be phased in at 500 per year until new ceiling reached.

Increased enlistment bonus for active forces--Increases maximum enlistment bonus from $5,000 to $8,000 and establishes a two-year test (Army only test) which would authorize up to $4,000 bonus for three-year enlistment.

The conference report also includes other provisions of interest to the Air Force:

Liberalizes separation travel restrictions previously included in Senate bill by permitting advance payment of separation travel allowances, authorizing lowest cost method of transportation for those completing less than 90 percent of initial obligation and authorizing 180 days to use travel authority (effective Nov. 1).

Home of selection moves--Restricts home of selection moves to locations in U.S. unless the member was called to active duty from a place outside the U.S. This restriction is not applicable to those with more than 18 years as of Nov. 1 who will retain the prerogative of selecting overseas area as HOS.

Advance payment of travel and transportation allowances--Authorizes advance payment of any applicable dependent travel, dislocation or evacuation allowances (since no cost is involved only policy clearance is required).

Uniform allowance and advanced pay for members of armed forces health professions scholarship program--Authorizes AFHPSP students advance payment of initial uniform allowance of not more than $200 and authorizes AFHPSP students not more than one month's advance pay to help defray food and other living expenses upon their arrival at military installation.

House and Senate passage is anticipated prior to Oct. 7 recess after which bill will be forwarded to president for signature.

Air Force Accounting and Finance Center will advise whether the pay raise will be included in Oct. 15 paychecks. Other entitlements will be included in Oct. 31 checks.

In related action the Senate and House passed legislation that would change certain veterans compensation benefits:

Group Life Insurance--Provides an increase in maximum dollar value of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance and Veteran's Group Life Insurance from $20,000 to $30,000 (effective Jan. 1, 1982).

Dependency and indemnity compensation--Provides an 11.2 percent increase in DIC effective Oct. 1.

Veterans benefits--Denies veterans benefits to officers who have served less than two years' active duty, (currently applies to enlisted members only).

The bill will now be forwarded to the president for signature.

Selective reenlistment bonus--Permits an enlisted member to reenlist prior to the expiration of an extension of an enlistment and to use up to two years of the unexpired extension in the computation of the SRB (effective for reenlistments that occur after enactment).

Reimbursement for travel expenses associated with shipment of motor vehicle--Entitles members to monetary allowance for travel from old duty station to port of vehicle embarkation and from port of vehicle debarkation to new permanent duty station (effective upon date of enactment).

The following authorities agreed to by conferees are not payable until policy clearance from OSD, is received changes are included in the appropriate regulations and funds are approved by appropriations committees:

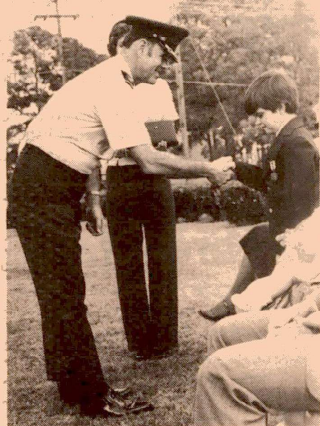

Temporary lodging entitlement--Incident to PCS moves--Authorizes four days TLE ($50 per day without dependents or $37.52 per day for members and $25 per day for each dependent not to exceed $110 per day per family) for CONUS to CONUS or overseas to CONUS moves. Note individuals proceeding from CONUS to overseas are authorized two days TLE while in CONUS. (The TLE is effective not before April 1, 1982).

Funded environmental and morale leave travel--For members and dependents serving in austere overseas locations. Authorizes funded commercial transportation (if government transportation not available) for member and dependents to a location offering respite from adverse conditions of the duty station. Authorizes one round trip during any continuous two-year tour and two round trips during any three year tour.

Transoceanic emergency leave travel--Provides round trip travel for member and dependents in event of death or imminent death of close relative, or serious illness of a close relative. Only authorized if government transportation is not available. Travel is authorized to port of entry in the U.S.

Emergency leave while TDY--Authorizes travel and transportation for member on TDY to permanent station in event of serious illness, injury or death of dependent.

Pope supports Dyess ORE

About 625 people and 16 aircraft from the 463rd Tactical Airlift Wing, Dyess AFB, Texas, deployed here Oct.

2 for an Operational Readiness Evaluation which concludes today.

The 463rd TAW will move elements of the 82nd Airborne Division and Special Forces units during their ORE. Some of the movements will include an Army Engineering battalion with heavy earth moving equipment and an artillery battalion.

"It's an ambitious undertaking and very demanding," said Lt. Col. John F. Bernard, 463rd TAW project officer for the exercise.

He added that the wing will be flying some 150 sorties into a variety of drop zones and assault landing fields at Fort Bragg, Camp Lejeune, Camp Pickett, Va., Camp A.P. Hill, Va., and Fort Lee, Va.

Teams of combat controllers from the 463rd TAW will be at all drop zones to control C-130s into the area.

The exercise began redeployment Oct. 8 and will finish today.

Worldwide Family Talent Contest

The 1981 Air Force Worldwide Family Talent Contest will be Oct. 28 at the Pope Recreation Center. Those wishing to enter should register at the center no later than Oct. 20. Group entries must be members of the same immediate family.

AES returns from Reforger

The 1st Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron recently returned from Ramstein AB, Germany, after taking part in Reforger '81, a joint chief of staff's exercise conducted to test NATO's readiness against threats from unfriendly forces.

Some 51 members from 1st AES helped evacuate over 1,000 "simulated" patients from forward combat areas to rear areas for strategic airlift back to the continental United States.

"The evacuation of wounded troops from forward airstrips is our primary mission," said Capt. David V. Adams, 1st AES public affairs representative. "Exercises of this type provide excellent training opportunities for our squadron, as well as familiarizing others with our capabilities."

Court-martial results

A court-martial ended Sept. 18 for a 23-year master sergeant charged with three specifications of larceny under Article 121, one specification of wrongful disposition of government property under Article 108 and one specification of soliciting an Air Force member to make a false statement to the Office of Special Investigation under Article 134.

The judge granted a motion for finding the sergeant not guilty on the Article 134 offense.

However, the court found the sergeant guilty of the lesser included offenses--wrongful appropriation for two of the specifications under Article 121 and guilty of larceny in the third specification.

The court also found him guilty of the Article 108 offense.

He was sentenced to be confined at hard labor for three years, to forfeit $504 pay per month for three years and reduction to the grade of E-4.

Members of the 21st Tactical Air Support Squadron's Tactical Air Control party from Shaw AFB, S.C., arrive at Pope's Detachment 1, 507th Tactical Air Control Wing, after completing a 145-mile relay run. The run was made as a response to an invitation extended by Det. 1 in August after 29 members of Det. 1 ran to Shaw and challenged the 21st TASS to match or beat their time. The 21st TASS ran the relay with 28 people in one hour, 35 minutes less time. (U.S. Air Force photo by SrA. Tanya L. Lairmore)

Perspective

'Pope is a very special place'

By Col. Jerry W. Angell, 317th Combat Support Group Commander

Pope is a very special place. It has long had the reputation for getting the job done right—the first time and every time. I feel very privileged to be the base commander.

After six weeks at Pope, I have a deep appreciation for the very demanding mission we are tasked to perform and the hectic pace of activity here 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

For some reason, the extent of what we do is not well known throughout the Air Force.

Did you know, for example, that in September we had 1,495 aircraft launches while Little Rock, our closest competitor for the title, had 653?

Considering those numbers, the amazing on-time departure rate of 95.3 percent is certainly a tribute to outstanding maintenance people and the dedicated crews who fly the aircraft.

Pope is, without question, one of the most beautiful bases I have ever seen. Those people living in base housing take obvious pride in their lawns and quarters. The base, in general, looks good all the time. Our civil engineer monitors a daily detail which picks up litter around the base. I would ask all of you to help by picking up trash when it can be reached and by teaching our young people not to litter by setting a good example.

I have been impressed with the military courtesy shown on this base. Any higher headquarters inspector will tell you that there is a direct correlation between mission accomplishment, individual appearance and basic military courtesy. People who take pride in their work take pride in their uniform and are proud to salute.

Pope rates an A+ in this area.

The headline of the first Hercules Herald I read Aug. 21 was "Colonel Field concerned over DUIs." He and I continue to share this concern. People who drink and drive are a problem in every community and Air Force base in this country. Unfortunately, we are losing the war against alcohol abuse. The only way to solve this problem is to influence the individual's personal decision to drive or not to drive after drinking.

In one nine-day period in September, we had seven DUIs on base. Four days after I took command, we had the worst on-base auto accident I have ever seen. We were very fortunate that five of the six individuals involved were wearing seatbelts. The driver of the vehicle which caused the accident was not. He was cited for DUI and having an open container in the vehicle.

What can you do?

Whether you are a commander, supervisor, or a brand new airman basic, be sure you understand that the loss of driving privileges for one year and a costly fine are not the worst things that can happen.

Probably worse than losing your own life in an alcohol related accident would be taking someone else's, especially one of your loved one's.

If you have a problem or know of someone who does, please ask for help. Call Social Actions, Ext. 2375.

Ride-a-long program

I would like to know why the Security Police can take their personal family or friends on an eight-hour shift at their jobs, three or four times during the week. I thought this was unauthorized people that were going to work. I would like to know why they are allowed to.

I understand they have a program for spouses but I don't think their friends and neighbors should be allowed to go to work with them for eight-hour jobs. In case of an emergency what would they do with these people that ride around in their vehicles with them?

The Security Police have a program in which we allow people to ride along with our patrols. The main intent is to indoctrinate the base populace on SP duties.

The program is not limited to family or friends, but to certain segments of the community. Participants have been Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Explorers, first sergeants, commanders, senior supervisors, etc.

This program has proven to be very effective. Procedures are established to insure the complete safety of any participants in the ride-a-long program.

Family conference

Two Pope women attend

"Find ways to keep Air Force members and their families in such a manner as to have them look forward to an Air Force career," was the challenge laid down by Gen. Lew Allen, Jr. at the 2nd annual Air Force Family Conference Sept. 17-18 at Bolling AFB, D.C.

Cynthia D. Aitshuler and Linda J. Hayes represented Pope at the conference.

"It was a very informative conference as it made the delegates aware that something was being done to alleviate some of the pressures of the Air Force family and correct some of the problems mentioned," said Mrs. Aitshuler. "Many suggestions and proposals were noted and it was felt that progress would be made.

"We've got to discuss what was talked about at the conference and decide what we're going to do on base," Mrs. Hayes said. Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Gilbert Beeson has been appointed project officer to work with the women to develop proposals to present to base officials.

"The Air Force has generally recognized the needs of the family and is on track to start to do the things we need," said Mrs. Hayes.

The Air Force chief of staff reminded his audience the Air Force mission must come first. Solutions for family concerns must not deviate from that principle, he stated.

Sharing the podium was his wife, Barbara, who said, "My own personal commitment began 32 years ago. But my formal commitment was made 1 1/2 years ago." That is when she began the Spouse Issues Group, comprised of concerned family members in Washington, D.C.

The focus of that group was retention—particularly family concerns contributing to decisions to leave the Air Force. A strong force in making the conference possible, the group asked delegates to offer means to help Air Force families.

Among the almost 400 persons at the conference were Air Force representatives of single-parent families, service couples, single service members and representatives from staff agencies concerned with families.

During two days of focus groups, workshops and panel discussions, the delegates looked at issues of economics, community, health, child care, communication and education.

Results of last year's Randolph AFB, Texas, conference were highlighted in a progress report showing seven family support centers are under way. Nine more will open during 1982 with plans calling for all major bases to have a center focusing on family needs by 1987.

Pointing to a need identified in the first family conference, Secretary of the Air Force Verne Orr urged people to renew their participation in volunteerism.

"If we encourage volunteerism and reward it, it will do a great deal to supplement what the government is able to do for families," he said.

Dr. (Col.) George Troxler, from the School of Aerospace Medicine at Brooks AFB, Texas spoke of family stress in the military and offered skills for coping. Measures he suggested to increase understanding and self-esteem in all family members included civilian consultants for family counseling, establishing unit family days, and temporary-duty clubs to provide families mutual support systems.

Maj. C. Anne Bonen, the chief of social actions at Bolling AFB, talked of the special challenges to active-duty couples and single parents.

"Imagination is the key to making family values mesh with the Air Force," she said.

While acknowledging the burden of responsibility rests with the individual, she encouraged the Air Force to learn more about these special populations through research and to consider the changing needs of Air Force families that no longer fit the traditional ideal of family.

Summing up participants' ideas during a "refocus" session, Col. Pat Murphy, deputy chief of the Human Resources Development Division, Headquarters Air Force, said economics is the top priority, followed by health and child care.

"But," she said, "among the 25 focus groups, the overriding feeling was that 'We're ok; we as families are ok; you, Air Force, are ok.'"

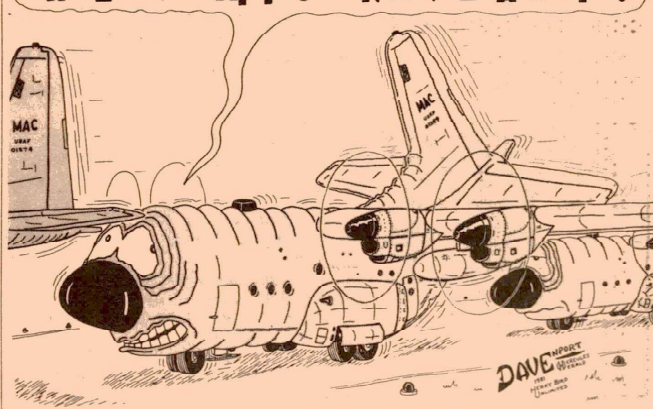

It was the wife of an Air Force technical sergeant from Dover AFB, Del., Helen Bennett, who said, "Let's not stop now. Let's not just wait for the Air Force to do something. If your base needs something, don't be afraid to start the ball rolling."

The Air Force Office of Family Matters will be responsible for compiling the ideas presented at the conference and will track actions that come of it. But before that time, conference delegates will have returned home to share their ideas at bases in Europe, the Pacific and across the United States.

General Allen renewed his challenge to delegates at the close of the family conference.

"The limitations of the future are only ourselves," he said.

I HATE THESE MINIMUM INTERVAL TAKEOFFS!

Campaign off to 'excellent' start

"I think we've gotten off to an excellent start," is the way Capt. Penny Coulter characterized the first week of the annual Combined Federal Campaign, which kicked off Oct. 5 at Pope. Captain Coulter has been named base project officer for this year's campaign.

"This is a one-time fund raising drive for all voluntary agencies," she said. "There are three categories of agencies included in the drive -- national health agencies, international health agencies, international service agencies and the United Way."

Although there is a monetary objective for the campaign, Captain Coulter explained that the only goal is to have 100 percent of the people on base contacted.

"We want to make sure everybody is aware of the program, but there will be no stressing of goals or pressure to give," she said. "People are free to participate in any way they feel they should."

Captain Coulter announced that three smaller units have already completed their drive by contacting everyone in the unit. The 317th Field Maintenance Squadron, with 493 members, has contacted more than half its members.

"It's still too early to tell," said Captain Coulter, not wishing to prejudge the eventual success of this year's drive.

A CFC thermometer, to measure overall base participation, has been installed in front of the tennis courts and will be moved once or twice a week, Captain Coulter said.

Col. Edsel R. Field, commander 317th Tactical Airlift Wing, and Mr. Martin Sternlicht, president, United Way, were speakers at the kick off session Sept. 28. Mr. Jim Duncan, a representative of the national health agencies also spoke.

Following is the revised list of CFC project officers for their respective units. They will be contacting base people to tell them about the program.

Suggestions

Three Pope people get $200

Money doesn't grow on trees, but it can be found in some pretty unexpected places around Pope by anyone with the ingenuity to find it.

The following Pope people received cash awards for suggestions to the Suggestion Program which were adopted at the Air Force, Command or base/unit level.

TSgt. Daniel T. Farrell, 317th Field Maintenance Squadron, received $200 for his suggestion that a locally manufactured tool be used in removing or installing the thermocouple studs on the T-56 engine.

Sgt. David P. Dalling, 1st Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron, was awarded $200 for proposing a change in the procedure used in erecting AN/GRA-4 antennas.

MSgt. Lyle D. Bishop, USAF Clinic, received $200 for proposing a change to AFR 35-13 which would allow an airman who voluntarily terminates aviation service to be reinstated if desired.

TSgt. Kenneth Gardner was awarded $150 for suggesting the use of the remarks section of the AF form 2095 for recording the award of AFSCs associated with permanent change of station moves.

SSgt. Victor M. Zalzo, 317th Civil Engineering Squadron, was awarded $80 for suggesting the use of a more efficient condenser fan motor in base housing air conditioners.

MSgt. William P. Sexton, Clinic, received $50 for proposing a change to MACR 76-1 which would require the medical kit be stocklisted.

TSgt. Walter L. Pollard, 215th Field Training Detachment, received $50 for his proposal of modifying the procedures used to install the synchronizer gear box assembly on AWADS aircraft.

AIC Karen L. Hoylman, 317th Headquarters Squadron, was awarded $25 for her proposal that a quarterly workshop be initiated for people separating from active duty.

Mr. Emmett J. Brooks, 317th Supply Squadron, was awarded $25 for his suggestion that all purchase orders containing discrepancies in Local Purchase Receiving be signed out on AF Form 614.

The following Pope people received certificates of appreciation for their suggestions:

AIC Ricardo Oliver, 317th HQS, AIC Gary Altman, 317th HQS, SSgt. Laymon Williams and Ms. Llevaine Hope.

SrA William Roberts, 317th Supply Squadron, Sgt. Lowell Beckner, 1943rd Communications Squadron, Mr. Don Jessup, 317th Civil Engineering Squadron and SSgt. Laymon Williams 317th Field Maintenance Squadron.

Dance to the music

If you're looking for a way to get in shape, meet new people and express yourself artistically, all at the same time, you might want to check out the jazz dance classes at the Pope Recreation Center Tuesday nights at 8 p.m.

Dancers take part in jazz dance class at Rec Center

The class is taught by Amn. Stacy Morrison, a native New Yorker, who has been dancing about 12 years. Airman Morrison is a graduate of the International Dance School at Carnegie Hall in New York.

"I really enjoy teaching dance," she said. "It not only benefits me, but I like to see people have a good time while they're learning."

Jazz dancing is an offshoot of modern ethnic dance that requires more pinpointed body isolation movements with improvisation.

"My classes are constructed so that if you miss one class you can pick up from the next one," Airman Morrison said. "The basic floor exercises are the same every class but the dance routines are different almost every week. They're beginner to basic routines and very easy to pick up."

Airman Morrison would like to see more men come to class.

"Most males that I've talked to seem hesitant about attending the class, but to dispell any myths about dancing being unmasculine, why not come out and try it," she said.

"I'm hoping that with enough participation we'll be able to expand and teach more dancing on additional nights," she added. "Dancing is more than just a great way to get in shape. It's a definite art that can be mastered by virtually anyone that puts their mind to it."
