09/24/2021	2021-CGFO-02020	It is unclear why the USCG has made the data of personal identifiers unavailable on the documentation search site in the NOAA fisheries query. Withholding this data creates an inability to report improper vessel operations to an owner in situations where no damage exists or where there is a captain that collides with a docked boat. This approach may protect the identity of the owners, but it also creates a frontier mentality created by the anonymity which has replaced traceability and open information.	-	Muth, Edwin
