Proposed monthly rates for Pope

New VHA should show in today's check

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Service members eligible for the variable housing allowance will see the revised amount in today's pay checks. The following are the three major criteria that determine if you should receive VHA:

● You are eligible for basic allowance for quarters.

● Your duty ZIP Code is in the United States—except Hawaii and Alaska—or you are on an unaccompanied tour overseas with dependents in the United States—except Hawaii and Alaska.

● The difference between the average rental-housing costs for your grade in your military housing area and 115 percent of your BAQ is greater than zero. There are several low-cost areas where some grades will receive no VHA.

Each of the some 400 military housing areas in the United States, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, has a monthly VHA rate for each grade and BAQ dependency status.

Improved statistical methods and a new, more comprehensive housing survey enabled the computation of VHA rates that will result in a more accurate reflection of local housing costs. Since VHA rates are a result of local housing costs as well as basic allowance for quarters rate, some VHA payments will increase while others will decrease.

This year VHA rates will be based on each grade. Last year an averaging system based on five grade groups was used. The change should better represent the different housing costs incurred by each grade. Additionally, separate rates will be computed for company-grade officers with prior enlisted service. They are shown in the chart as O-1E, O-2E, O-3E.

The proposed monthly rates for Pope are:

RANK	With Dependents	Without Dependents
E-1	28.77	16.51
E-2	34.94	21.22
E-3	57.54	39.56
E-4	30.62	20.55
E-5	34.83	23.32
E-6	34.99	22.39
E-7	47.52	30.83
E-8	54.48	38.64
E-9	66.37	47.14
O-1	27.96	21.48
O-1 E	86.68	66.59
O-2	-0-	-0-
O-2 E	45.24	35.76
O-3	3.91	3.17
O-3 E	43.00	34.85
O-4	17.39	14.41
O-5	9.74	8.09
O-6	10.71	8.78
O-7 and above	-0-	-0-

This year's large BAQ raise had a significant affect on VHA. If the October BAQ raise for a particular grade was greater than housing-cost increases in an area for that same grade, then the VHA for that area could be less. This does not mean, however, that the member's combined total allowances for housing (BAQ plus VHA) will decrease. In most locations, the combined total allowances for housing will be greater than fiscal 81.

For more information locally, contact the accounting and finance office, military pay division, Ext. 4441.

If your questions cannot be answered at the local level, a VHA hotline is available on Autovon 221-0345 and 221-0346. Commercial numbers are 202-325-0345 and 202-325-0346. A VHA analysis team member will answer questions between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Eastern Time.

Red Flag

Pope people leave for Nellis

Four aircrews, 18 maintenance people and three aircraft deployed from Pope Oct. 24 to take part in Red Flag 82-1 at Nellis AFB, Nev.

The aircrews are members of the 41st Tactical Airlift Squadron and the maintenance people are from the 317th Organizational, Field and Avionics Maintenance Squadrons.

"This is the most realistic combat environment training in the Air Force," said Lt. Col. Bob L. Mithcell, 41st Tactical Airlift Wing commander.

"Pope crews will be flying against hostile ground-based and airborne threats.

"The aircrews will polish their techniques for navigation and airdrops in combat using terrain masking and evasive maneuvers," he added. "This is super training for our aircrews."

Familiarization and orientation missions commenced Tuesday. Four new air crews will be deployed tomorrow to relieve the crews already at Nellis

Thanks for super job

By Col. Edsel R. Field
317th Tactical Airlift Wing Commander

The following data for the month of September gives a good picture of the activity level at Pope AFB. We have roughly three times as many departures as do other Military Airlift Command bases and our reliability rates are the highest!

It appears that 1,532 departures establishes a new monthly high. It has taken a lot of hard work by very dedicated people to keep things going.

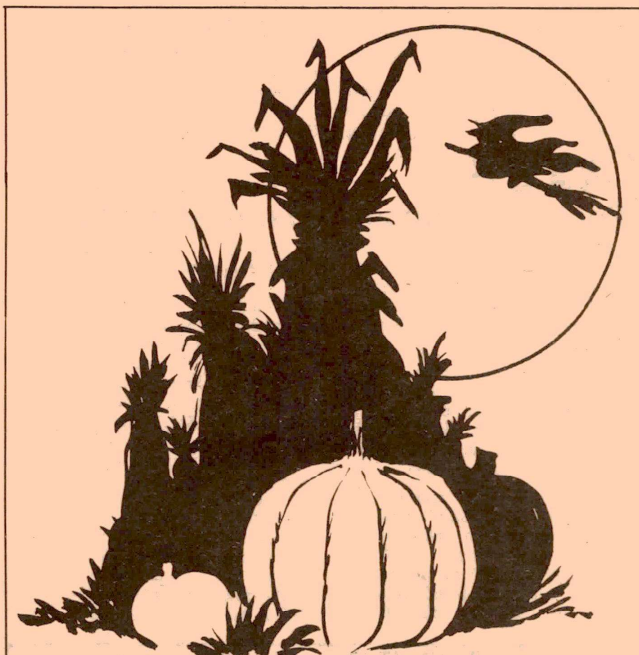

Thanks for a super job!

New Air Force weight standards

A forthcoming change to Air Force Regulation 35-11 will mean the current weight standards for members 17-30 years old will apply to all Air Force members regardless of age, Pope personnel officials announced.

A phase-in program for members 31 and older who exceed the new standard is being developed. After a reasonable period of time all members will be required to comply with the new standard.

The target date for the publication of the change to Regulation 35-11 is Nov. 1.

Clothing Sales Store hours change

The Pope Military Clothing Sales Store will resume its normal hours of operation beginning Nov. 2 due to the results of a 60-day test of Saturday operation.

The store will be open from 10 a.m.-4:15 p.m. Monday thru Friday. It will also be open one Saturday each month to serve reserve members between 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Dates for Saturday operation will be published in the Hercules Herald and Base Bulletin. ### SPs tested during Cold Fire

By SrA. Tanya L. Lairmore

Forty-four members of the 317th Security Police Squadron went to Hahn Air Base, Germany, Sept. 21-25 to take part in Cold Fire, a part of Reforger '81 exercises.

The Cold Fire exercise tested the capability of security police units, Military Airlift Command, Tactical Airlift Command and Air Training Command bases in defending Hahn from enemy attack outside the base perimeter.

"We were the only base whose perimeter was not penetrated," said 1st Lt. John Short, 317th SPS operations officer. "The evaluators for Headquarters MAC graded us as outstanding."

The teams were competing for possession of the Centurian Trophy, which goes to the best air base ground defense flight in the Air Force. The official outcome of the event has not been announced yet.

While at Hahn, the teams set up observation posts, established fixed fighting positions and patrolled the defense area while living under sparse field conditions.

Security specialists from Hahn acted as the enemy and tried to infiltrate the guarded area.

"The stress encountered by the 317th SPS from the beginning was handled superbly," said Lieutenant Short. "At times it was man against environment and if nothing else, our men proved that they could overcome the hardships of field environment."

Pope recognizes

Capt. David E. Snyder, 41st Tactical Airlift Squadron, was selected as a distinguished graduate of the Air University's Squadron Officer School at Maxwell AFB, AL.

Captain Snyder was in competition with 629 students in Class 81-E and graduated in the top 18 percent of his class. In addition, his selection was recommended by a review committee and approved by the SOS commandant.

SrA. Michele Dekoeyer was recently appointed as chief of Base Reprographics, Central Base Administration. She took over from Mr. Gene Evans who was transferred to Fort Bragg. As chief of Base Reprographics, Airman Dekoeyer is responsible for handling all reprographics work at Pope.

draws AFB, Md., Oct. 23 where they participated in a medical Red Flag exercise.

Medical Red Flag is a readiness exercise which gives Air Force medical people the opportunity to get first hand knowledge of Air Force combat medical capabilities, and practice skills under field conditions.

In addition to caring for simulated casualties, the participating units set up displays and are given lectures on such subjects as battlefield medicine.

In keeping with the Red Flag purpose, the 1st AES demonstrated the capabilities of tactical aeromedical evacuation. Because the 1st AES is the only active duty tactical AES, many of the Red Flag participants had their first exposure to tactical aeromedical evacuation.

How to reduce thefts

SP official offers tips

By SSgt. Thomas J. Neville
317th Security Police Squadron

Are you making it easy for a thief to steal your property? If you leave your property insecure, you are.

Do you value your bicycle, stereo, tools or other items enough to lock them up?

About 85 percent of thefts on Pope involve insecure property. A recent walk-through of parking lots revealed the following:

- Two tool boxes left insecure.
- Five power tools left insecure.
- Three car tape decks left in plain sight and insecure.

- One citizen's band radio left open to theft.

You can avoid losing your property by following a few simple steps.

- Secure your car to include windows.
- Place your property out of sight (tape decks, CBs, etc.).
- Secure your bicycles to fixed objects.
- Lock your quarters.

As an added precaution, mark your property. This is easily done through the Security Police. For further information on securing and marking your property, contact the Security Police Crime Prevention NCO at Ext. 2532.

Taxes

Package reduces federal withholdings

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Service members will see their federal income taxes reduced an overall 23 percent in the next three years as a result of the tax package passed by the Reagan administration.

Withholdings have been reduced by 5 percent starting this October and will be included with the pay raise in today's check. Withholdings will be reduced 10 percent July 1, 1982, and another 10 percent July 1, 1983.

To see this applied, consider the following examples. Staff Sergeant Bluesuiter is single with eight years of service. The sergeant's pay is $965.70 per month. With the 5 percent reduction, the withholding is $136.59. Without the reduction, $143.96 or $7.37 more would have been taken from the sergeant's pay.

If the sergeant is married, the withholding for two people—the member and spouse—is $87.09. The pre-reduction tax withholding would have been $97.33. If the sergeant has a child and spouse—three persons including the sergeant—the withholding is $73.75, rather than the $82.33 figure before the reduction.

In 1982, the increase to a 10 percent reduction will result in more savings for the sergeant. If the sergeant is single, the deduction is about $122.93. If the sergeant is married, the 1982 withholding is about $78.38. If the sergeant has a child and spouse, the withholding for 1982 will be about $66.37.

Discipline key to military capability

By Maj. Larry K. Thomas, Commander
317th Field Maintenance Squadron

The military service has long been known as an institution which demands discipline. Discipline is a key ingredient to military capability. It is the one factor in the capability equation that cannot be omitted.

Discipline, however, is often misunderstood. Discipline is not always punishment or submission to authority. Although it can be these things, discipline is training that develops self-control, orderliness and efficiency. It is basically a very simple concept and when a person has developed self-control or self-discipline, there is seldom need for use of discipline as a punishment.

People who excel in their chosen craft or profession do so because they are in total control themselves. Those who fail are failures because they allowed someone or something to influence their self-control.

Most of the people with whom I am in contact are in control of themselves. They are responsible citizens both on and off the job. There is, however, a fraction of the population who are not in control - who have no self-discipline. These people do things most of us do not understand. What kinds of things?

Well, a few examples: late for work or details - or - not showing up at all; breaking windows in the dormitories; letting the air out of the tires of a Security Police vehicle; setting fire to a pool table and, believe it or not, a pair of fatigue pants; possession of a controlled substance; and, driving under the influence. If you see yourself or someone you know here, you see a problem.

These people are a problem. Mostly, they are a problem to themselves. Without exception, they lack self-discipline. Why? Where have they missed out? These are not easy questions to answer.

I do know that it is never too late to begin. Self-discipline is an on-going process and it takes thought and hard work - nothing worthwhile is easy.

Once a person has established control of his or her behavior - develops self-discipline - then orderliness and efficiency will naturally follow. This one factor completes the capability equation.

Crosstrainees find career rewarding

By A1C Andrew Knef

Thinking about changing career fields?

Consider this point of view from former fuels specialist, A1C Early Sexton, now a manpower management specialist with Detachment 12, 1600 Management Engineering Squadron.

"I think this is an excellent job -- it is very satisfying," said the Stone Mountain, Ga. native, who has been in the career field six months. "My input has an impact on the wing's mission. You have to apply yourself and think because this is a very mental job. I'm helping everybody."

Det. 12 is a tenant organization at Pope, reporting directly to Headquarters Military Airlift Command at Scott AFB, Ill.

"Our primary job is to develop manpower standards and for the work centers throughout the Air Force," explained TSgt. Chris Whitehead, an aircraft maintenance specialist for 14 years before retraining. "We identify the number of people it takes to do a particular job in a given work center."

Manpower management specialists and technicians must retrain into the field from their original AFSCs. An eight-week training program is required.

"I was looking for something a little bit different that would offer me a marketable skill when I retire," Sergeant Whitehead said.

The manpower management field correlates to industrial technology and industrial engineering in the civilian world, he explained.

The detachment is broken down into engineering and manpower branches.

"Engineering develops standards which the manpower branch applies," Sergeant Whitehead said.

The most important part of any manpower study, Sergeant Whitehead explained, is the preliminary or identification phase, when all the workload of a particular work center is identified.

Data is collected and sent to a lead engineering team, where it is analyzed and compared with data from similar work centers throughout the Air Force. A mathematical formula is derived from which authorizations for specific units can be determined.

This is not a one-sided process, Sergeant Whitehead emphasized.

"Functional managers and commanders, as well as the office of primary responsibility at the major command level all contribute input to the study," he added.

In addition to developing manpower standards, MACMET offers a management advisory service to functional managers, commanders and work center supervisors. Once a study is initiated, an engineering team will obtain information to determine a given problem. Their recommendations may or may not be carried out.

MACMET is also the office of primary responsibility for the FASCAP and base productivity programs and the base manpower data system.

A recent recruiting drive put together by the detachment resulted in 25 Pope people expressing an interest in the career field. Air Force-wide the field is 200 people short of being fully manned.

"We try to insure we have tight control over who enters the field," said Capt. Truman Bolden, Det. 12 commander. "I have a good feeling about our people -- what gives me this feeling is the dedicated technicians and branch chiefs who are highly qualified to do the job."

Chinese observe medical display

By Capt. Larry F. Stamler
1st Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron

The 44th Medical Brigade set up a medical display for two groups of military officers at Fort Bragg's Sicily Drop Zone Oct. 22.

The officers were members of the Permanent Joint Board of Defense and the Peoples Republic of China Army Medical Delegation. The PJBD delegation consisted of 30 people, including two ambassadors and 11 U.S. and Canadian generals. The PRC delegation consisted of 12 general officer equivalents and their escorts.

The purpose of the demonstration was to show the groups the sequence of care received by combat casualties, including tactical aeromedical evacuation.

The Army units that participated were the 57th Medical Detachment, 307th Medical Battalion, 429th Medical Company and the 28th Combat Support Hospital. The 1st Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron, with aircraft support from the 41st Tactical Airlift Squadron, provided the tactical aeromedical evacuation display.

Each group was briefed on the facilities and capabilities of the 1st AES. This was followed by a demonstration by AES of a rapid onload of combat casualties into a C-130 aircraft.

Most fires occur at night say base fire officials

People who live in one and two family dwellings are responsible for about a third of all fire deaths according to base fire officials. These fatal fires most often take place between midnight and 6 a.m. when flames, smoke and toxic gases gain headway unnoticed while residents are asleep.

This is why a nighttime fire escape plan is a must for every household.

Fire victims are children about 40 percent of the time. Approximately three to four thousand youngsters through the age of 15 die from fire each year. An estimated 25 percent of the fires take place when the children are alone or without proper supervision.

Let the Base Fire Department be a partner in planning emergency escape routes from your home. Call Ext. 2426 for help in planning.

The team scored their two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning in the final game. With one man on, Bob Keegan smashed a drive into left field which got past the fielder, scoring both men.

Besides the outstanding pitching of Bob Keegan, the defensive effort of the outfielders and infielders was superb. The team allowed only two runs in the four games played for the championship.

Ever try putting a 72" furnace in a 54" space?

If your mobile home is more than 9 or 10 years old and you want to put a new furnace in, you're in for a little surprise.

Most new furnaces are too tall.

We have the solution. "Not-too-tall" furnaces from Interterm.

Since the coil cavity is optional, they'll fit in where the big ones don't. And that saves you money on carpentry work, flue shortening and other expensive work.

Interterm furnaces will save you money in other ways too. They're designed for years of dependable service and they meet the most stringent efficiency standards.

So for oil, gas or electric heat, call us for a free, no-obligation estimate. If you're not sure if your furnace needs to be replaced, let us give it a pre-season check-up.
