Gen. Allen greets Rodeo teams

By A1C Andy Knef

A whole passel of airlift cowboys came to Pope this week for Volant Rodeo with their sights set on a trophy and a name—best tactical airlifter in the world.

The showdown got underway Monday with opening ceremonies on Pope's green ramp. Gen. James R. Allen, commander in chief of the Military Airlift Command, welcomed the 30 participating teams from the

U.S. Air Force, Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve and four allied nations.

General Allen said Volant Rodeo is more than just an airlift competition.

"This is a NATO competition—a symbol; a solidarity of that great alliance which has preserved peace for 32 years in our part of the world," he said.

"The competition will improve the readiness of MAC," he continued. He added that new techniques and procedures would filter throughout the command from the competition.

Earlier, Brig. Gen. Robert B. Patterson, Volant Rodeo competition commander, said the finest airlifters in the world had gathered at Pope to test their skills.

"Each year the competition improves and becomes more intense," he said.

Other general officers in attendance at the ceremony were Lt. Gen. Jack V. Mackmull, 18th Airborne Corps and Fort Bragg commander, Maj. Gens. Thomas M. Sadler, 21st Air Force commander, James E. McAdoo, 14th Air Force commander, and Raymond E. Hebrank, adjutant general of California.

Also on hand to welcome the participants to Pope and North Carolina, were Col. Edsel R. Field, commander of the host 317th Tactical Airlift Wing, state Sens. Joe Raynor and Tony Rand, Fritz Healy, president of the Military Affairs Committee, and Joe Barr, founder of the Pope Special Activities Committee.

The Army's crack parachute team, the Golden Knights, opened Monday's ceremonies with a demonstration of aerial maneuvers and precise landings in front of the reviewing stand. The Knights team members presented General Allen batons used in the demonstration. Ceremonies were concluded with a musical salute to each of the military branches by the Air Force Band of Mid-America.

Earlier, Generals Allen and Patterson reviewed the Volant Rodeo participants as they stood in front of their aircraft.

Twenty-six tactical airlift units from MAC bases plus one team each from the United Kingdom, Italy, West Germany and Canada entered the week-long event. The 30 teams were split into individual teams competing in airdrop, aircraft maintenance, combat control, joint inspection, engine running on/offload and security police events.

An awards ceremony is scheduled today at 3:30 p.m. at York Theater on Fort Bragg. Because of limited seating, the ceremony will be open to competitors, competition staff and invited guests only.

A picnic follows at Pope Park at 6 p.m. Tickets are available at the information booth in the Rodeo area next to the Command Post for $1.

Crime Stop deters vandals

By SrA. Tanya L. Lallamore

They struck in the dark of night. Slipping from house to house, carrying buckets and brushes, talking in stage whispers—they hit seven houses. In the morning, seven people emerged from their on-base homes to discover that their property had been vandalized.

Seven families—all neighbors on a street in the family housing area—had their cars repainted in just one of many such recent late-night vandal attacks. Nobody heard anything. At least if they did, no one took the time to call the Security Police anonymous Crime Stop number.

"It's bad when seven cars are vandalized on the same street and no one

Briefs

June 20 Father's Day

President Ronald Reagan has proclaimed Sunday, June 20 as Father's Day 1982.

This day is set aside, said the proclamation, "To honor fathers for all that they do for the well-being of their children and families."

The proclamation added that fathers, as family founders, contribute to our nation's strength "as traditional breadwinners, protectors of wives and children, and models for character development and behavior."

"Now that many wives and mothers are enlarging their family responsibilities by working outside their homes, fathers are also adding to their family roles by assisting with child care and household tasks."

BX thefts cost the customer

DALLAS (AFNS)—Since January more than 3,000 Army and Air Force Exchange Service customers worldwide have lost their exchange shopping privileges because they were caught shoplifting.

AAFES employees have caught and detained 20,000 individuals for shoplifting during the past two years with the average theft amounting to $13.89, said Exchange officials.

Clothing is at the top of the list of merchandise lost by shoplifting, followed by costume jewelry, cosmetics, cassette tapes and other items that can fit easily into a pocket or purse.

AAFES officials say the chances of getting caught are quite good — maybe not the first time but sooner or later. The Exchange trains not only its store detectives but its managers, supervisors and all other store personnel on how to detect shoplifters.

Family members and civilians are subject to prosecution in civil courts, resulting in a federal conviction. If convicted they will lose privileges for at least six months.

Military people may receive confinement, reduction in grade, forfeiture of pay and allowances, and a bad-conduct discharge.

Two make Hall of Fame

Two Pope people who have made outstanding contributions to the athletic program here were inducted into the newly-formed Pope Sports Hall of Fame June 10. TSgt. James M. Callahan and SSgt. Ronnie V. Chalmers, USAF Clinic, were presented certificates of appreciation by Col. Edsel R. Field, 317th Tactical Airlift Wing commander at the morning staff meeting.

Sergeant Chalmers, selected in the participating athlete category, has represented Pope on every level of basketball competition. Sergeant Callahan has been instrumental in developing one of the most active bowling programs in the Air Force.

According to Dale Prell, chief, recreation services, the purpose of the Hall of Fame is to recognize military and civilian people assigned here who have contributed significantly to the athletic program.

The Hall of Fame is proposed as an ongoing program. Names are submitted annually to a nominating committee in three categories — participating athlete, coach, or other contributor.

"Chalmers and Callahan set very high standards for future selections," Mr. Prell said.

Student stampeed

Children burst out the front door at Pope Elementary School as the final bell rings Friday, releasing them for summer vacation. Swimming in the Base Pool and trips to visit relatives were high on the list of plans for how to spend the summer for most students. One thing they won't be doing is hanging around the school yard since it has been put off limits until school resumes in the fall. (Photo by Dave Davenport)

New Wing vice commander: 'Pope people are superior'

Col. David W. Scott, who took over as vice commander of the 317th Tactical Airlift Wing May 29, is a command pilot with more than 5,000 hours of flying time.

Colonel Scott comes to Pope from his latest position on the Air Staff, where he was chief of the Airlift and Rescue Division, Directorate of Operations, Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Operations.

Col. David W. Scott

His first impressions of Pope people, Colonel Scott says, is that they are "...absolutely superior. We've got a tremendous mission, and the people here are really dedicated toward supporting that mission. Pope is the busiest base in MAC and it takes super folks to do the job."

"One of the key functions I intend to focus on is my role as the wing inspector as far as insuring preparedness for commitments. As part of that (IG role), I'd like people to know that I have an open door policy, and that they're free to talk to me about their concerns. For that matter, the same holds true if they see me in any of the areas around base."

Colonel Scott's career includes stints as an air refueling pilot and an assignment with the 1st Air Commando Wing as a U-10 pilot in Bien Hoa, South Vietnam. After returning from Vietnam in 1964 he was assigned to the newly activated 313th Troop Carrier Wing at Forbes AFB., Kan. Colonel Scott became one of the first combat-ready C-130B aircraft commanders in the 48th Troop Carrier Squadron.

In 1967 Colonel Scott began a European tour, serving as a C-130A mission crew commander with the 7406th Support Squadron, Rhein Main AB., Germany and as an air operations staff officer in the Directorate of Airlift, Headquarters, United States Air Force Europe.

In 1970 Colonel Scott returned to the United States as an operations staff officer in the Directorate of Airlift, Bergstrom AFB., Texas.

In 1972 Colonel Scott began his first Asian tour as executive officer and senior aid to the chief of staff, United Nations Command, Seoul, Republic of Korea. In 1974 he entered the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va., and after graduation became operations officer with the 36th Tactical Airlift Squadron, Langley AFB., Va.

In 1975 Colonel Scott moved on to Headquarters, Military Airlift Command, Scott AFB., Ill., as chief of the Airlift Programming Branch. Colonel Scott commanded the 773rd Tactical Airlift Squadron, Dyess AFB., Texas, from 1977 to 1979, before attending the Air War College at Maxwell AFB., Ala.

Colonel Scott is married to the former Patty Sue McGuigan of Dearborn, Michigan. They have three children.

Strike back at vandals with Crime Stop

notices anything until the next morning," said SSgt. Thomas J. Neville, Security Police Crime Prevention NCO.

Vandalism has been on the upswing recently in base housing, according to Sergeant Neville. The pranks range in severity from stealing or destroying garden hoses to stealing bicycles and painting cars.

"We suspect that the vandals are between 14-18 years old," Sergeant Neville said. "It's probably a group, because they hit in clumps."

Security Police recently compiled a chart illustrating the correlation between vandalism incidents and Crime Stop calls. A portion of the 30-day chart is shown at right.

The chart showed that on days when Crime Stop received few calls, vandals made several successful attacks. And when the Crime Stop line was kept busy, vandals made few strikes.

For instance, Crime Stop received four calls May 14 and there were no vandal attacks. Only one call was received May 17 and vandals struck four times that day.

"It's virtually impossible for us to have a patrol on every street in housing every minute of the day," Sergeant Neville said. "We have to rely on the people who live there to be our eyes and ears."

"When someone calls us on the Crime Stop line, 394-4111, to report a suspicious activity we send a patrol out right away," he explained. "Even if they don't turn up anything concrete, their very presence in the area tends to scare off would-be vandals."

There are several other things which people can do to protect themselves against vandalism according to

Sergeant Neville. "The first thing they can do is lock up their property," he said. "It's unbelievable, the number of bicycles that are just left lying on lawns or simply parked under carports in our housing area. All a thief has to do is ride away on the bike."

Marking property also is imperative. "That way, if something is stolen, then later recovered, it will be a lot easier to trace and to prove ownership," he said.

Lights should be kept on outside at night. Vandals are much less likely to strike a well lit house than a dark one that offers plenty of shadowy hiding places.

People should also make a habit of looking outside frequently and keeping an eye on neighbors' homes. "Just think how you would feel if your property was stolen or destroyed, then you found that your neighbor had noticed a suspicious character lurking about and hadn't bothered to report it," the sergeant said. "This is especially important to military people who are often away on leave and temporary duty."

Sergeant Neville added that a large part of the responsibility for stopping on-base vandalism was with the parents of prank-pulling children. "Parents are responsible for the actions of their children," he said. "The base has a strictly enforced curfew, but parents should also know where their children are and what they're up to at all times. If their children are caught vandalizing someone's property, the parents could very well end up answering to the base commander."

People who have any questions about the Crime Stop program or who might be interested in forming a Neighborhood Watch organization should call the Security Police Crime Prevention section at 394-2532.

Gen. Allen greets Rodeo teams

By A1C Andy Knef

A whole passel of airlift cowboys came to Pope this week for Volant Rodeo with their sights set on a trophy and a name—best tactical airlifter in the world.

The showdown got underway Monday with opening ceremonies on Pope's green ramp. Gen. James R. Allen, commander in chief of the Military Airlift Command, welcomed the 30 participating teams from the

U.S. Air Force, Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve and four allied nations.

General Allen said Volant Rodeo is more than just an airlift competition.

"This is a NATO competition—a symbol; a solidarity of that great alliance which has preserved peace for 32 years in our part of the world," he said.

"The competition will improve the readiness of MAC," he continued. He added that new techniques and procedures would filter throughout the command from the competition.

Earlier, Brig. Gen. Robert B. Patterson, Volant Rodeo competition commander, said the finest airlifters in the world had gathered at Pope to test their skills.

"Each year the competition improves and becomes more intense," he said.

Other general officers in attendance

at the ceremony were Lt. Gen. Jack V. Mackmull, 18th Airborne Corps and Fort Bragg commander, Maj. Gens. Thomas M. Sadler, 21st Air Force commander, James E. McAdoo, 14th Air Force commander, and Raymond E. Hebrank, adjutant general of California.

Also on hand to welcome the participants to Pope and North Carolina, were Col. Edsel R. Field, commander of the host 317th Tactical Airlift Wing, state Sens. Joe Raynor and Tony Rand, Fritz Healy, president of the Military Affairs Committee, and Joe Barr, founder of the Pope Special Activities Committee.

The Army's crack parachute team, the Golden Knights, opened Monday's ceremonies with a demonstration of aerial maneuvers and precise landings in front of the reviewing stand. The Knights team members presented General Allen batons used in the demonstration. Ceremonies were concluded with a musical salute to each of the military branches by the Air Force Band of Mid-America.

Earlier, Generals Allen and Patterson reviewed the Volant Rodeo participants as they stood in front of their aircraft.

Twenty-six tactical airlift units from MAC bases plus one team each from the United Kingdom, Italy, West Germany and Canada entered the week-long event. The 30 teams were split into individual teams competing in airdrop, aircraft maintenance, combat control, joint inspection, engine running onload/offload and security police events.

An awards ceremony is scheduled today at 3:30 p.m. at York Theater on Fort Bragg. Because of limited seating, the ceremony will be open to competitors, competition staff and invited guests only.

A picnic follows at Pope Park at 6 p.m. Tickets are available at the information booth in the Rodeo area next to the Command Post for $1.

Crime Stop deters vandals

By SrA. Tanya L. Lairamore

They struck in the dark of night.

Slipping from house to house, carrying buckets and brushes, talking in stage whispers—they hit seven houses. In the morning, seven people emerged from their on-base homes to discover that their property had been vandalized.

Seven families—all neighbors on a street in the family housing area—had their cars repainted in just one of many such recent late-night vandal attacks. Nobody heard anything. At least if they did, no one took the time to call the Security Police anonymous Crime Stop number.

"It's bad when seven cars are vandalized on the same street and no one

Briefs

June 20 Father's Day

President Ronald Reagan has proclaimed Sunday, June 20 as Father's Day 1982.

This day is set aside, said the proclamation, "To honor fathers for all that they do for the well-being of their children and families."

The proclamation added that fathers, as family founders, contribute to our nation's strength "as traditional breadwinners, protectors of wives and children, and models for character development and behavior."

"Now that many wives and mothers are enlarging their family responsibilities by working outside their homes, fathers are also adding to their family roles by assisting with child care and household tasks."

BX thefts cost the customer

DALLAS (AFNS)—Since January more than 3,000 Army and Air Force Exchange Service customers worldwide have lost their exchange shopping privileges because they were caught shoplifting.

AAFES employees have caught and detained 20,000 individuals for shoplifting during the past two years with the average theft amounting to $13.89, said Exchange officials.

Clothing is at the top of the list of merchandise lost by shoplifting, followed by costume jewelry, cosmetics, cassette tapes and other items that can fit easily into a pocket or purse.

AAFES officials say the chances of getting caught are quite good — maybe not the first time but sooner or later. The Exchange trains not only its store detectives but its managers, supervisors and all other store personnel on how to detect shoplifters.

Family members and civilians are subject to prosecution in civil courts, resulting in a federal conviction. If convicted they will lose privileges for at least six months.

Military people may receive confinement, reduction in grade, forfeiture of pay and allowances, and a bad-conduct discharge.

Two make Hall of Fame

Two Pope people who have made outstanding contributions to the athletic program here were inducted into the newly-formed Pope Sports Hall of Fame June 10. TSgt. James M. Callahan and SSgt. Ronnie V. Chalmers, USAF Clinic, were presented certificates of appreciation by Col. Edsel R. Field, 317th Tactical Airlift Wing commander at the morning staff meeting.

Sergeant Chalmers, selected in the participating athlete category, has represented Pope on every level of basketball competition. Sergeant Callahan has been instrumental in developing one of the most active bowling programs in the Air Force.

According to Dale Prell, chief, recreation services, the purpose of the Hall of Fame is to recognize military and civilian people assigned here who have contributed significantly to the athletic program.

The Hall of Fame is proposed as an ongoing program. Names are submitted annually to a nominating committee in three categories — participating athlete, coach, or other contributor.

"Chalmers and Callahan set very high standards for future selections," Mr. Prell said.

Student stampeed

Children burst out the front door at Pope Elementary School as the final bell rings Friday, releasing them for summer vacation. Swimming in the Base Pool and trips to visit relatives were high on the list of plans for how to spend the summer for most students. One thing they won't be doing is hanging around the school yard since it has been put off limits until school resumes in the fall. (Photo by Dave Davenport)

New Wing vice commander: 'Pope people are superior'

Col. David W. Scott, who took over as vice commander of the 317th Tactical Airlift Wing May 29, is a command pilot with more than 5,000 hours of flying time.

Colonel Scott comes to Pope from his latest position on the Air Staff, where he was chief of the Airlift and Rescue Division, Directorate of Operations, Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Operations.

Col. David W. Scott

His first impressions of Pope people, Colonel Scott says, is that they are "...absolutely superior. We've got a tremendous mission, and the people here are really dedicated toward supporting that mission. Pope is the busiest base in MAC and it takes super folks to do the job."

"One of the key functions I intend to focus on is my role as the wing inspector as far as insuring preparedness for commitments. As part of that (IG role), I'd like people to know that I have an open door policy, and that they're free to talk to me about their concerns. For that matter, the same holds true if they see me in any of the areas around base."

Colonel Scott's career includes stints as an air refueling pilot and an assignment with the 1st Air Commando Wing as a U-10 pilot in Bien Hoa, South Vietnam. After returning from Vietnam in 1964 he was assigned to the newly activated 313th Troop Carrier Wing at Forbes AFB., Kan. Colonel Scott became one of the first combat-ready C-130B aircraft commanders in the 48th Troop Carrier Squadron.

In 1967 Colonel Scott began a European tour, serving as a C-130A mission crew commander with the 7406th Support Squadron, Rhein Main AB., Germany and as an air operations staff officer in the Directorate of Airlift, Headquarters, United States Air Force Europe.

In 1970 Colonel Scott returned to the United States as an operations staff officer in the Directorate of Airlift, Bergstrom AFB., Texas.

In 1972 Colonel Scott began his first Asian tour as executive officer and senior aid to the chief of staff, United Nations Command, Seoul, Republic of Korea. In 1974 he entered the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va., and after graduation became operations officer with the 36th Tactical Airlift Squadron, Langley AFB., Va.

In 1975 Colonel Scott moved on to Headquarters, Military Airlift Command, Scott AFB., Ill., as chief of the Airlift Programming Branch. Colonel Scott commanded the 773rd Tactical Airlift Squadron, Dyess AFB., Texas, from 1977 to 1979, before attending the Air War College at Maxwell AFB., Ala.

Colonel Scott is married to the former Patty Sue McGuigan of Dearborn, Michigan. They have three children.

Strike back at vandals with Crime Stop

notices anything until the next morning," said SSgt. Thomas J. Neville, Security Police Crime Prevention NCO.

Vandalism has been on the upswing recently in base housing, according to Sergeant Neville. The pranks range in severity from stealing or destroying garden hoses to stealing bicycles and painting cars.

"We suspect that the vandals are between 14-18 years old," Sergeant Neville said. "It's probably a group, because they hit in clumps."

Security Police recently compiled a chart illustrating the correlation between vandalism incidents and Crime Stop calls. A portion of the 30-day chart is shown at right.

The chart showed that on days when Crime Stop received few calls, vandals made several successful attacks. And when the Crime Stop line was kept busy, vandals made few strikes.

For instance, Crime Stop received four calls May 14 and there were no vandal attacks. Only one call was received May 17 and vandals struck four times that day.

"It's virtually impossible for us to have a patrol on every street in housing every minute of the day," Sergeant Neville said. "We have to rely on the people who live there to be our eyes and ears."

"When someone calls us on the Crime Stop line, 394-4111, to report a suspicious activity we send a patrol out right away," he explained. "Even if they don't turn up anything concrete, their very presence in the area tends to scare off would-be vandals."

There are several other things which people can do to protect themselves against vandalism according to

Sergeant Neville. "The first thing they can do is lock up their property," he said. "It's unbelievable, the number of bicycles that are just left lying on lawns or simply parked under carports in our housing area. All a thief has to do is ride away on the bike."

Marking property also is imperative. "That way, if something is stolen, then later recovered, it will be a lot easier to trace and to prove ownership," he said.

Lights should be kept on outside at night. Vandals are much less likely to strike a well lit house than a dark one that offers plenty of shadowy hiding places.

People should also make a habit of looking outside frequently and keeping an eye on neighbors' homes. "Just think how you would feel if your property was stolen or destroyed, then you found that your neighbor had noticed a suspicious character lurking about and hadn't bothered to report it," the sergeant said. "This is especially important to military people who are often away on leave and temporary duty."

Sergeant Neville added that a large part of the responsibility for stopping on-base vandalism was with the parents of prank-pulling children. "Parents are responsible for the actions of their children," he said. "The base has a strictly enforced curfew, but parents should also know where their children are and what they're up to at all times. If their children are caught vandalizing someone's property, the parents could very well end up answering to the base commander."

People who have any questions about the Crime Stop program or who might be interested in forming a Neighborhood Watch organization should call the Security Police Crime Prevention section at 394-2532.

This is no cheap pizza.

Oh, sure, we could cut down on the size, use artificial cheese, skimp on the items and then sell it two for one. But we just don't believe in doing business that way.

At Domino's Pizza, we believe in large helpings and quality ingredients. Why, that's why people love pizza. And we think that's where the value is.

For over 20 years, we've been making the best pizza we know how, and we've been delivering it free, in 30 minutes or less. Call us, tonight.
