

Community outreach is an important part of the Navy's environmental cleanup program at HPNS. Opportunities for information and community involvement are offered in a variety of formats to encourage participation by anyone who is interested in learning more.

One of the most popular outreach activities is guided bus tours of the cleanup sites at HPNS. These tours bring shipyard neighbors, history buffs, photographers, and people interested in the Navy's cleanup program from near and far.

The Navy will host two guided photo tours of Hunters Point Naval Shipyard (HPNS) on Saturday, October 21, 2023, and two tours on Sunday, October 22, 2023. The tours allow members of the public the opportunity to visit the site and take still photos from three locations around the Shipyard. In addition, the Navy will share information about its ongoing environmental cleanup at HPNS.
