

USA C-1128 (Color)
(U.S. Army Photograph)

NORMANDY OPERATION,
JUNE 1944.

LOADING AMPHIBIOUS SHIPPING FOR THE NORMANDY LANDINGS, IN AN ENGLISH PORT, circa
MAY or EARLY JUNE 1944.
AT LEAST ONE OF THE LCMs IN THE FOREGROUND IS FROM USS SAMUEL CHASE
(APA-26). IN CENTER ARE
USS LST 774 AND LST 775.

2344

FROM:

PUBLIC RELATIONS DIVISION
U.S. COAST GUARD
WASHINGTON, D.C.

OFFICIAL COAST GUARD PHOTO

COAST GUARD CRAFT SINKING

A COAST GUARD LCI (LANDING CRAFT, INFANTRY) LISTS SHARPLY AFTER BEING FATALLY HIT DURING THE INVASION OF THE COAST OF FRANCE. ONE MAN CLINGS TO A LIFE RAFT (AT LEFT), ANOTHER LIES WOUNDED ON A STRETCHER, AND A THIRD SPRAWLS DEAD ON THE DECK. THE WOUNDED WERE TRANSFERRED TO AN ASSAULT TRANSPORT BEFORE THE SHIP PLUNGED BENEATH THE WAVES.

IN REWRITING CAPTION, PLEASE MENTION "COAST GUARD"

Imley
(H)

2350

From:

Public Relations Division
U.S. Coast Guard
Washington, D.C.

Credit Line Must Read OFFICIAL U.S. COAST GUARD PHOTO

COAST GUARD SHIP IS HIT

Wounded American fighters lay on stretchers on the deck of a Coast Guard LCI (landing craft, infantry), ready to be transferred to an assault transport just before the Coast Guard ship rolled over and sank after being hit during the invasion of the French Coast. A dead soldier can be seen sprawled on deck at the left.

2349

From:

Public Relations Division

U. S. Coast Guard

Washington, D. C.

Credit Line Must Read OFFICIAL U. S. COAST GUARD PHOTO

COAST GUARD FERRIES REINFORCEMENTS

Grim and determined, these American soldiers head towards the French coast as the American Flag flies from the stern of their U. S. Coast Guard landing barge as it speeds towards the invasion shore.

0617442

From:
Public Relations Division
U.S. Coast Guard
Washington, D.C.
OFFICIAL COAST GUARD PHOTO

KNOCKED OUT LCI HIGH AND DRY ON INVASION BEACH

Battered by exploding mines, smashed by Nazi 88s and gutted by fire, this Coast Guard infantry landing craft perches abandoned at the high water line on one of the hotly contested French invasion beaches. Coast Guard LCIs were in the first waves of liberation craft to hit the invasion coast on D Day.

2663

FROM:

PUBLIC RELATIONS DIVISION
U.S. COAST GUARD
WASHINGTON, D.C.

OFFICIAL COAST GUARD PHOTO

COAST GUARD'S ROVING RESCUERS CHEAT DEATH IN THE CHANNEL

TWO OF THE MORE THAN 1,400-- FROM THEIR "DOUGHNUT" LIFE RAFT, TWO FLIERS ARE HELPED ABOARD AN 83-FOOT COAST GUARD RESCUE CUTTER, AFTER THEIR MOSQUITO BOMBER CRASHED IN THE ENGLISH CHANNEL, ADDING TWO MORE LIVES SAVED TO THE RECORD OF THE COAST GUARD'S "MATCH BOX" FLOTILLA SINCE D-DAY. SEATED IN THE RAFT IS MICHAEL GRIBBIN, RAF FLYING OFFICER OF OXFORDSHIRE, ENGLAND; AND ABOUT TO CLIMB UP THE LIFE NET IS ROBERT GRIFFITH, RCAF FLIGHT OFFICER, OF TORONTO, CANADA, SURVIVORS OF THE MOSQUITO CRASH. COAST GUARDSMEN IN THE PICTURE ARE: ENSIGN NORRIS NEMER (BACK TO CAMERA), COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE CUTTER, 3900 SUNNYSIDE ROAD, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.; WILLIAM CASTLEMAN (BEYOND NEMER), CHIEF MOTOR MACHINIST'S MATE, 5332 WEST ADAMS STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.; AND LEO GRAHM (KNEELING RIGHT), QUARTERMASTER SECOND CLASS, 505 TROLLINGER STREET, BURLINGTON, N.C.

Album Copy

3743

See 66-17-44(22)

World War II

FROM:

PUBLIC RELATIONS DIVISION
U.S. COAST GUARD
WASHINGTON, D.C.

OFFICIAL COAST GUARD PHOTO

rel. # 3743

COAST GUARD 83-FOOTERS SPEED TO RESCUE

TWO CUTTERS OF THE NOW FAMOUS COAST GUARD INVASION RESCUE FLOTILLA, WHICH HAS SAVED THE LIVES OF HUNDREDS OF MEN IN THE ICY CHANNEL WATERS OFF FRANCE, SPEED TOWARD ANOTHER RESCUE. THE LITTLE CUTTERS MAINTAIN AN UNCEASING PATROL OFF THE INVASION COAST.

IN REWRITING CAPTION PLEASE MENTION "COAST GUARD"

DO NOT REMOVE

Copy by 2 Bureau

1611

2402

From:
Public Relations Division
U.S. Coast Guard
Washington, D.C.
OFFICIAL COAST GUARD PHOTO

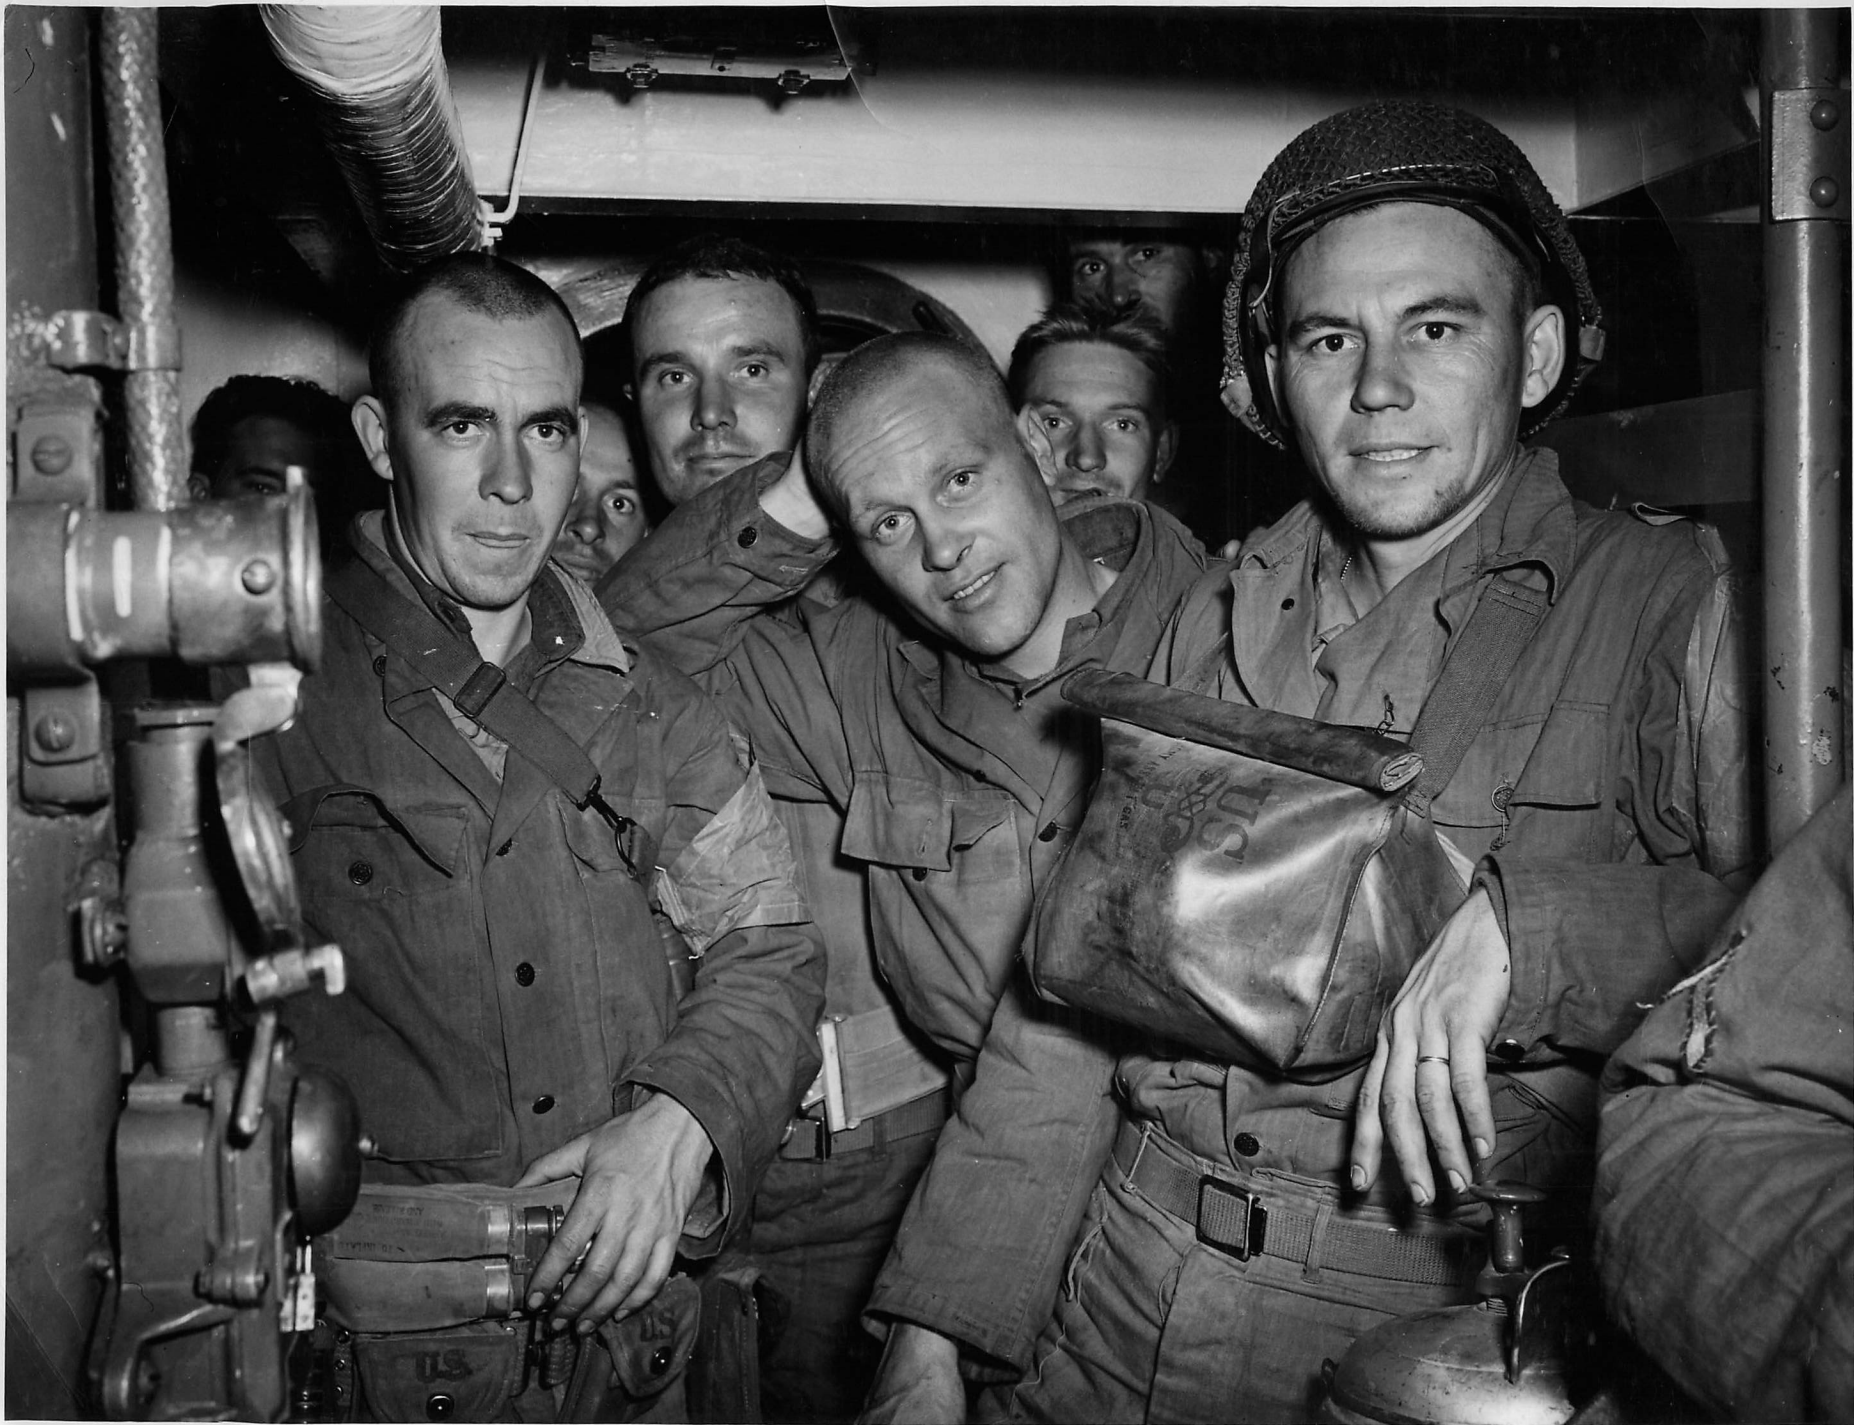

"ELSIE" TAKES THE BOYS OVER

"Elsie," the boys call the LCIs -- those staunch landing craft that carry them through invasion waters to enemy coasts. "Elsie" wears a barrage balloon in her hair to keep enemy strafing planes from diving too close. Here, a typical group of G.I. Joes wait on the decks of a Coast Guard "Elsie" heading for the shores of France.

Shortage

~~25 needed~~

For
J. L. Lantry

2400

From:
Public Relations Division
U.S. Coast Guard
Washington, D.C.
OFFICIAL COAST GUARD PHOTO

ALL ABOARD -- PACKED TIGHT -- FOR INVASION

Aboard a Coast Guard LCI headed to the beach of France, these Army men find "standing room only" in a troop compartment. This is the way that countless G.I. Joes made the historic channel crossing that breached Hitler's vaunted coastal defense.

2339

FROM:
PUBLIC RELATIONS DIVISION
U.S. COAST GUARD
WASHINGTON, D.C.

OFFICIAL COAST GUARD PHOTO

INVADER NO. 1 IS MANNED BY COAST GUARDSMEN

AFTER ROLLING INTO THE FRENCH COAST WITH THE FIRST WAVE OF D-DAY INVADERS, THIS COAST GUARD MEDIUM LANDING CRAFT, BEARING THE PROUD NO. 1 ON ITS STERN, DASHES BACK TO ITS MOTHER SHIP, A COAST GUARD ASSAULT TRANSPORT, WITH SOME OF THE FIRST AMERICANS TO FALL WOUNDED IN THE THRUST ON HITLER'S ATLANTIC WALL. THE WOUNDED WERE GIVEN EMERGENCY TREATMENT IN THE TRANSPORT'S SICK BAY BEFORE RETURNING TO BRITAIN FOR HOSPITALIZATION.

12
R Imley
2407

From:

Public Relations Division
U.S. Coast Guard
Washington, D.C.

OFFICIAL COAST GUARD PHOTO

MASS FOR THE INVADERS OF AN LCI

Before the fateful hour when they will be called upon to storm the bullet-swept beaches of France, American fighting men attend Mass aboard a Coast Guard infantry landing craft. The services are held in the cramped troop compartment. The Chaplain can be seen kneeling before the portable altar.

IN REWRITING CAPTION PLEASE MENTION "COAST GUARD"

NAVAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CENTER
NAVAL STATION, WASHINGTON, D.C. 20374
OFFICIAL U.S. NAVY PHOTOGRAPH

NO. 80-G-252555 UNIT:
DATE: 14 JUNE 1944
PHOTOGRAPHER:

LT. GEN. OMAR BRADLEY, USA AND RADM.
ALAN G. KIRK, USN. U.S. ARMY AND NAVY COMMANDERS OF THE INVASION IN-SPECTING THE NORMANDY INVASION AREA FROM A LAUNCH IN JUNE, 1944.

DS

RELEASE

USA C-1111 (Color)
(U.S. Army Photograph)

NORMANDY OPERATION,
JUNE 1944.

AMERICAN TROOPS CROWD
INTO LANDING CRAFT FOR TRANSPORTATION TO LARGER SHIPS, DURING PRE-INVASION LOADING
IN AN ENGLISH PORT,
circa LATE MAY or EARLY JUNE 1944. CRAFT IN