

Application for Pardon After Completion of Sentence

What Is a Pardon and How Can It Help You?

Pardon is asking forgiveness from the President.

Pardon CAN:

- Restore civil liberties, like the right to vote, or sit on a jury
- Lift barriers to licensing, employment, housing, or education

Pardon CANNOT:

- Erase a conviction
- Expunge a conviction

To apply, you should:

- Have a conviction under federal law, D.C. Code, or Uniform Code of Military Justice
- Have been released from prison or home/community detention at least five years ago
OR
Have been sentenced at least five years ago, if you were not given a prison term
- Live in the U.S. or its territories

If you are still serving your sentence, use the commutation application form: justice.gov/pardon/apply-commutation

How to Begin:

Filling out and submitting the application is the first step in a lengthy process. You will be asked to share details about yourself, your reasons for seeking pardon, your current activities, challenges you may be facing because of your conviction, information about your conviction and other criminal history, if any, and letters of support.

It is not required, but it may help to gather these documents, if available, before you start:

1. Presentence investigation report
This report is prepared by the U.S. Probation Office to help the court with sentencing.
2. Judgment
This document shows what sentence the court gave you.
3. Statement of reasons
This document gives the court's reasons for the sentence (not applicable in D.C. Code or military cases).
4. Indictment or Information
These documents list the charges against you.
5. Case docket report
The docket lists all the events in the case.

WHERE CAN I FIND DOCUMENTS RELATED TO MY CONVICTION?

You may be able to get the judgment, indictment, information, and case docket report online:

Federal cases: PACER (has fees):
uscourts.gov/court-records/find-case-pacer

D.C. cases:
dccourts.gov/superior-court/cases-online

For documents that aren't available online, you can contact or go to the court clerk's office:

Federal court clerk's offices:
uscourts.gov/about-federal-courts/federal-courts-public/court-website-links

D.C. Superior Court:
dccourts.gov/superior-court/criminal-division

When will the Office of the Pardon Attorney (PARDON) contact you?

The pardon application process can take months or years. We ask that you keep your contact information updated so that we can reach you when needed. Until the notification of the President's final decision, your application is "pending" or open. Messages from PARDON during the process DO NOT predict the final decision. No outcome is guaranteed. Common situations when we may contact you include:

Confirmation Letter

We will send an email or letter confirming your application has been received

Follow-Up Letters

We may send emails or letters asking for more information or updates

Background Investigation

We will let you know if a background investigation has been started

Notification of Final Decision

We will let you know if the President has granted or denied pardon

HELPFUL TIPS

- This application asks for information to help us get a better picture of you and your life. All questions are important. Answer all questions to the best of your knowledge and ability and give as much detail as you can.
- The application asks for a large amount of personal information that may require research and collecting documents from the past. You may need several sessions to complete the application.
- To help us process your application more quickly, if an answer does not apply to you, write "Not Applicable."
- Sending your application as a PDF by email will help us process your application more quickly.
- If you mail the application, stapling, gluing, or taping any part will slow down processing.
- If you need more space, you can add pages or documents.
- If there is information you feel would make your application stronger, include it in additional pages. You can tell us about achievements, like physical fitness training or accomplishments; participation in personal growth, like counseling, therapy, or meditation; or other ways you have spent your time that tell us about who you are today.

Table of Contents

A. Background Information	6
We need to know who is applying for pardon, to confirm your identity, and to be sure any background investigation is accurate.
B. Reasons for Seeking Pardon	8
We need to understand how your conviction has affected your life and what you hope pardon will change or improve.
Additional Information About Your Life Since Your Conviction (Parts C-I):
We need the questions in sections C-I (pages 9-14) to help us get a better picture of your life since your conviction, including your successes and the challenges you may have faced.
C. Community Activities	9
D. Educational and Licensing Opportunities	10
E. Places Lived	11
F. Military Service	11
G. Job History	12
H. Sobriety and Substance Use	13
I. Financial Information	14
 J. Case Background and Other Criminal History	 15
We need to make sure we have the correct case and understand your offense conduct. It also gives you a chance to explain any other criminal history that may appear in a background investigation.
K. Certification and Personal Oath	18
We need your signature to know that you are submitting the pardon application willingly and that you have answered the questions accurately, to the best of your ability.
L. Authorization for Release of Information	19
The authorization lets us and any investigators get information and documentation about your life. If we need information about medical or mental health history, we will ask you for a separate authorization.
M. Letters of Support	20
We need to know how you interact with your community, who you are now, and what your life looks like since your conviction. We need at least three letters. If you give us more than three letters, let us know which three will be your primary references. Primary references cannot be related to you by blood or marriage and must be willing to be interviewed during a background investigation.
N. Application Checklist	23
This checklist will help you review your application to make sure it is complete. It also tells you where to submit the application and how to keep your contact information updated.

Know Your Rights and How Your Information Will be Used

Who is collecting this information and what are my rights?

The Office of the Pardon Attorney collects your information to review and make recommendations to the President on pardon applications. The Office is part of the Department of Justice, which is a federal government agency. You have the right not to give information to us. If you do not answer some of the questions, however, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to continue working on your application.

How will my information be used under the Privacy Act?

The principal purpose for collecting this information is to enable the Office of the Pardon Attorney to process and evaluate your request for pardon after completion of sentence. The routine uses which may be made of this information include provision of data to the President and his staff, other governmental entities, and the public. The full list of routine uses for this correspondence can be found in the System of Records Notice titled, "Privacy Act of 1974; System of Records," published in Federal Register, September 15, 2011, Vol. 76, No. 179, at pages 57078 through 57080; as amended by "Privacy Act of 1974; System of Records," published in the Federal Register, May 25, 2017, Vol. 82, No. 100, at page 24161, and at the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Privacy and Civil Liberties' website.

The Office of the Pardon Attorney has authority to collect this information under the United States Constitution, Article II, Section 2 (the pardon clause); Orders of the Attorney General Nos. 1798-93, 58 Fed. Reg. 53658 and 53659 (1993), 2317-2000, 65 Fed. Reg. 48381 (2000), and 2323-2000, 65 Fed. Reg. 58223 and 58224 (2000), codified in 28 C.F.R. §§ 1.1 et seq. (the rules governing petitions for pardon after completion of sentence); and Order of the Attorney General No. 1012-83, 48 Fed. Reg. 22290 (1983), as codified in 28 C.F.R. §§ 0.35 and 0.36 (the authority of the Office of the Pardon Attorney).

Can the government publish my information?

If you are granted or denied pardon by the President, your name will be released, including on our website or in response to public information requests, in accordance with our Freedom of Information Act obligations. Non-public documents, such as this petition and supporting documents, the presentence investigation report, the results of any federal background investigation, and the recommendation of the Department of Justice, are not generally available under the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts. However, the Pardon Attorney may disclose the contents of pardon files in the possession of the Department of Justice when the disclosure is required by law or the ends of justice. Additionally, this office would confirm that a specific individual has applied for or was granted or denied pardon.

The President and his immediate staff are not subject to the constraints of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts. Accordingly, while pardon-related documents in the possession of the White House traditionally have not been made public, they may be legally disclosed at the discretion of the President. In addition, pardon-related documents retained by the White House at the end of a presidential administration will become part of the President's official library, where they become subject to the disclosure provisions of the Presidential Records Act.

Answer questions as accurately and as fully as you can, to the best of your knowledge.

Making any intentionally false statements of material facts may be a reason for denying your petition. In addition, the knowing and willful falsification of a document submitted to the government may subject you to criminal punishment, including up to five years' imprisonment and a $250,000 fine. See 18 U.S.C. §§ 1001 and 3571.

Public Burden Statement

This collection meets the requirements of 44 U.S.C. § 3507, as amended by the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995. We estimate that it will take 180 minutes to read the instructions, gather the relevant materials, and answer questions on the form. Send comments regarding the burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, to Attn: Office of the Pardon Attorney, U.S. Department of Justice, Attn: OMB Number 1123-0016, RFK Building, 950 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20530. The OMB clearance number, 1123-0016, is currently valid. PARDON may not collect this information, and you are not required to respond, unless this number is displayed.

Note: Nothing in this application or instructions is legal advice.

☐ Check here if you are attaching additional pages. Add the section name to the top of each page.

I. Financial Information

Do you have any debts that are late or in default (including child support payments) or do you have any bankruptcy filings?

We know that criminal convictions may affect some people’s ability to get a job and may carry heavy financial penalties, making it harder to keep up with necessary expenses. We know this can be a hard subject to discuss. Your honest reflection is helpful to us.

- Note: A credit report will be reviewed if a background investigation is started.

Description of debt that is late or in default	Approximately how much is the debt?

Court where bankruptcy filed	Approximate year bankruptcy filed and outcome	Approximately how much debt did you want to discharge?

Is there anything else you would like to share about your experience with finances since your conviction?

This may include information on why you are unable to pay the above debts or filed for bankruptcy and any plans to catch up on payments for any debts that are late or in default.

☐ Check here if you are attaching additional pages. Add the section name to the top of each page.

J. Case Background and Other Criminal History

a. Give basic information on the conviction for which you are seeking pardon.

If you are seeking pardon for more than one conviction, attach additional pages.

It is not required, but, if available, sending a copy of these documents with your application will help us review your case more quickly. See cover page for more information.

- Presentence report
- Judgment
- Statement of reasons
- Indictment or Information
- Case docket report

☐ Check here if you are attaching any of these documents.

Did you plead guilty? ☐ Yes ☐ No

Probation or supervised release: _____
Sentence for probation or supervised release (months or years)

Approximate date you completed your term of probation or supervised release (month/year)

Financial penalties: _____
Assessment amount Fine amount Restitution amount

b. Tell us about your conduct for which you were convicted.

We want to hear from you, in your own words. The more specific and complete you are, the more helpful it is to us. We are specifically looking for information that is NOT in the public record of your case. You may wish to answer the following:

- What was your role in the offense?
- How, when, and why did you get involved?
- What actions did you take in connection with the offense? (Include all actions, even if you pleaded guilty to only specific conduct, counts, or portions of the full criminal activity.)

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Do you accept responsibility for your conduct? Explain why or why not.

☐ Check here if you are attaching additional pages. Add the section name to the top of each page.

c. Tell us about any other criminal history.

Your criminal history will be reviewed as part of any background investigation. List any other arrests or convictions that may appear on your criminal history record, if any, including juvenile and expunged records, and give any information you would like us to know about them. If you have your presentence report, you may attach it and give missing or additional information you would like us to know below.

NOTE: Pardon of a military offense will not change the character of a military discharge.

3. Keep your contact information updated.

We will need to reach you during the pardon process. If your contact information changes, email us at USPardon.Attorney@usdoj.gov or send a letter to our mailing address.

The application process:

1. Confirmation letter – We will send an email or letter letting you know we received your application and if it is missing any parts. If you have not received a confirmation after three months, email USPardon.Attorney@usdoj.gov (preferred) or send a letter to our mailing address. You can check the status of your case on the Pardon Attorney's website: justice.gov/pardon/search-clemency-case-status.
2. Follow-up letters – It may take some time for review of your application to start. During the review, we may need more information or updates to your application. If we do, we will contact you by email (preferred) or mail.
3. Background investigation – During the review of your application, a background investigation may be necessary. The investigation is conducted by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). We will let you know by email (preferred) or mail if we have asked for a background investigation. It may include interviews of you, the people who wrote your letters of support, neighbors, former and present employers, acquaintances, and other individuals who may be able to give relevant information about you. The agent will be discreet and make reasonable efforts not to disclose the reason for the investigation, but we cannot guarantee that those interviewed will not learn that you are seeking pardon for a past criminal conviction.
4. Notification of final decision – You will be notified when a final decision is made by the President. This may take years. No hearing will be held and there is no appeal from the President's decision to deny a request for pardon.
5. Reapply – If your pardon request is denied, you may reapply two years after the date of the denial.
